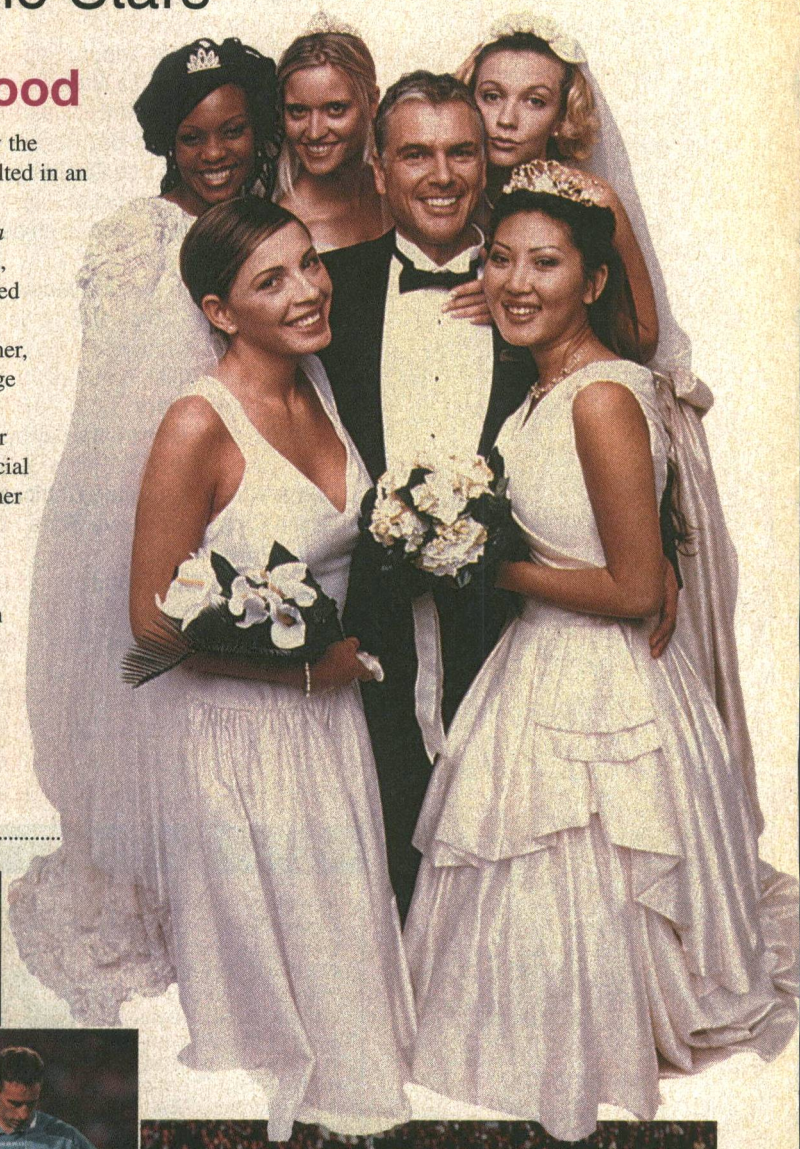
A marriage made in Hollywood



American television's desperate search for a ratings hit, generated by the phenomenal success of ABC's Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?, resulted in an episode that was tacky even by the standards of American light entertainment, which is saying something. On Who Wants to Marry a Multi-Millionaire? – transmitted by the Fox network from the Hilton, Las Vegas (where else?) – 34-year-old nurse Darva Conger was picked out by Rick Rockwell, 42, from a line-up of 50 potential spouses. A $35,000 engagement ring and romantic honeymoon awaited the winner, and Conger was chosen from five finalists, all of whom came on stage in full wedding gear.

They were duly married, live on air, by a Las Vegas judge. But later there emerged some interesting details about Rockwell (whose financial status remains uncertain), not least a restraining order filed by a former girlfriend, after he allegedly threatened her with violence. On their romantic honeymoon, the newlyweds barely spoke, and in March 1999, barely three weeks later, Conger, insisting that the marriage had never been consummated, applied to have it annulled. Since then both she and Rockwell, a sometime stand-up comedian, have gained considerable notoriety. In spring he launched a nationwide comedy tour, full of jokes at Conger's expense. The series, incidentally, was cancelled after just one show, so don't miss your chance to see a unique, and uniquely tawdry, TV event.

It was almost inevitable that England would wind up playing Germany at some stage of the Euro 2000 football tournament, and indeed the old foes, drawn in the same qualifying group, will meet on 17 June in Charleroi, Belgium. Some quirk of footballing fate decrees that in almost every international football competition, England will play Germany (or if not Germany, Argentina, and sometimes both). And an ITV2 theme evening, melodramatically entitled The Ultimate Sporting Contest, recalls some of the more memorable encounters.

The Germans have more than made up for the disappointment of the 1966 World Cup Final (above, right), winning just about every subsequent encounter of significance, beginning with the 1970 World Cup quarter-final in Mexico, which England were leading 2-0 with less than 25 minutes to go. The great Franz Beckenbauer then made it 2-1 and the German captain, Uwe Seeler, equalised, before the winger, Grabowski, set up an extra-time winner for the arch-predator Gerd Muller.

The finger of blame for England's defeat in Mexico has been pointed at manager Alf Ramsey for not deploying wingers himself and for substituting Bobby Charlton. But if it has to be pointed anywhere, it should be towards the mysterious, malevolent force that keeps engineering the narrowest of German victories. Witness, more recently, the trauma of elimination by German penalties, first in the 1990 World Cup semi-final, and then in the semi-final of Euro 96 (above, centre). Indeed, Gary Lineker, scorer in vain of a celebrated equaliser in that unforgettable 1990 semi-final, has coined a new cliche. That England v Germany games are always tight contests 'and then Germany win'. So 17 June is as good a date as any for Lineker's cliche to be disproved.

Kelly's a model presenter

Model Kelly Brook didn't quite cut the mustard on The Big Breakfast, but as Donna Air's successor on MTV's video request show Select MTV young Kelly has already attracted more fan mail than any other MTV presenter this side of the Atlantic. 'Five days a week on the best pop show on TV ... who wouldn't be excited?' she says, excitedly.

In a League of their own

There were some entertaining double takes on the day I had lunch, in a North London restaurant, with the League of Gentlemen, the comedy troupe less well known as Steve Pemberton, Reece Shearsmith, Mark Gatiss, and (the only non-performer of the four) Jeremy Dyson. After all, it's not every day that men associated with murder, fetishism, cannibalism, brain-washing, kidnapping and toad-worshipping, to name but a handful of their anti-social habits, are spotted demurely sipping mineral water.

The League of Gentlemen are named after the Jack Hawkins film of the same name, which in turn took its name from the followers of the Scarlet Pimpernel. Their dark and rather brutal brand of comedy is perhaps an acquired taste, yet the taste has been acquired by several million people, including, so they tell me, Sir Paul McCartney, Steve Coogan, Ronnie Corbett and Charles Dance. 'And Dawn French wants to be in it,' says Shearsmith. He comes from Hull, while Gatiss is from Darlington, Pemberton from Chorley and Dyson from Leeds, hence the distinct Northern flavour of the series – also, of course, called The League of Gentlemen. The Derbyshire village of Hadfield doubles as Royston Vasey – the real name, they assure me, of the notoriously blue comedian Roy 'Chubby' Brown, who duly had a cameo as Royston Vasey's mayor. And their extraordinary gallery of grotesques has turned Hadfield into an improbable tourist destination, rather like Holmfirth 15 miles away, where Last of the Summer Wine is filmed. In fact, the proprietor of Hadfield's humble sandwich bar, Frank's Place – better known to LoG enthusiasts as the fast-food joint Burger Me! – is actually thinking of adopting the fictional name.

'I don't know, I might just put it in brackets,' she informs me. 'I'm not sure. When you see them spitting on the burgers and bursting spots on them, well, it's not such a good advert, is it? Actually, the girl who works here on a Saturday morning hadn't seen that particular episode the night before, and she was quite offended when people came in the next day and asked her not to spit on their butties.'

What did you do in the war?

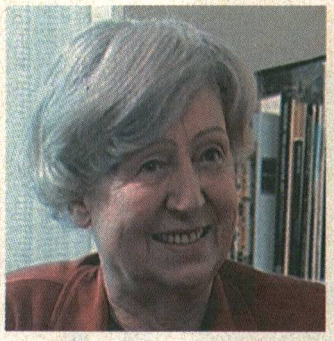
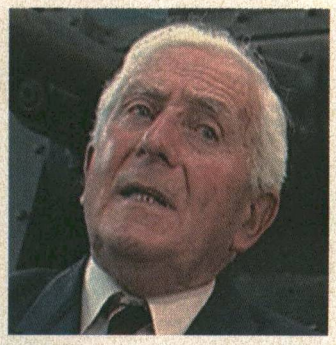
A month-by-month account of World War II by those who lived through it

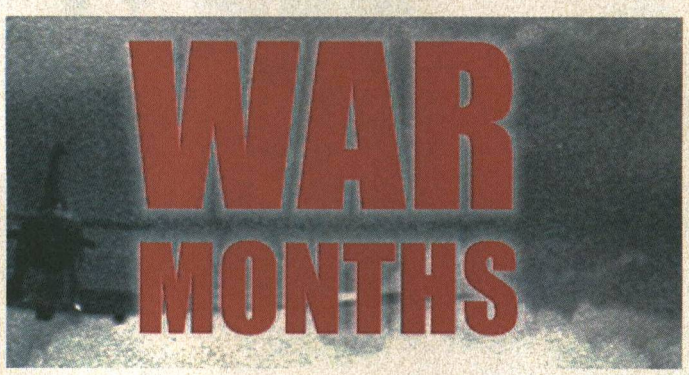
A MAJOR NEW documentary series coming soon on the Discovery Channel, War Months uses personal testimony to give a human voice to the early years of World War II. This 13-part series, to be transmitted in September, charts the build-up to the conflict following Adolf Hitler's rise to power in Germany, and follows the key developments in the years 1940-41, including the invasions of France and Poland, the Battle of Britain, the Blitz, the North Africa campaign and the signing of the Atlantic Charter by Franklin D Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

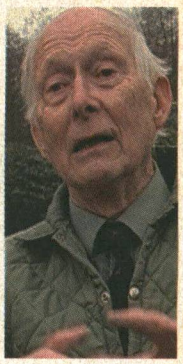
But this is no dry history lesson, because it recounts the experiences of ordinary people on both sides of the conflict, telling the stories behind the wartime headlines. Thus there will be reminiscences from Rommel's personal secretary, as well as from one of the Desert Rats; from a former Lieutenant aboard HMS Ajax and from a highly decorated U-boat commander.

Accompanied by archive film and photographs, the series offers a month-by-month analysis of what the war was really like for the people who lived through it, giving a personal perspective to events and images that have passed into the pages of history.









Conflict of interest: Ingeborg Selte, Ron Huggins and Anthony Goodhart are among those recalling their wartime experiences

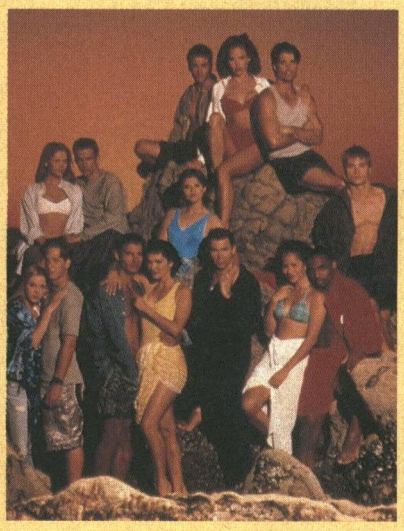
For instance, most people are familiar with Neville Chamberlain's famous 'peace in our time' speech, but former Downing Street secretary Marion Walker Spicer recalls a rather more telling declaration made by the Prime Minister at that time. Back at Downing Street after his historic address on his return from the Munich Peace talks, Chamberlain apparently remarked: 'I should never have said that.'

Similarly, the Evening Standard picture of St Paul's during the Blitz is one of the most enduring images of Britain at war. War Months hears from Leslie Jerman, a former Fleet Street journalist who was on the steps of the Cathedral when the picture was taken.

The series is being made by Brook Lapping Productions, a merger of two well-known British independent production companies. Brook Associates has produced a range of award-winning series, including The Kennedys and The Windsors, and has made single documentaries for Timewatch, Cutting Edge and Dispatches.

Brian Lapping Associates was responsible for the prize-winning Death of Yugoslavia as well as Watergate, Fall of the Wall and Death of Apartheid.

WATCH OUT!



● TV mogul Aaron Spelling, executive producer of the forthcoming Charlie's Angels: The Movie, has brought us such TV classics as Starsky and Hutch, Dynasty and Beverly Hills, 90210. One of his more recent offerings, Sunset Beach (pictured), recently bit the dust after three years. But loyal fans of the quirky soap can get that beachwear out again and enjoy the highs and lows of the glamorous residents once more, as the tide comes back in for a re-run of the show on ITV2 from next month.

● Great Notley in Essex will have a whole new village by the end of the year. Charting the construction of this brand new community, Discovery Home & Leisure is spending over six months behind-the-scenes meeting the people involved in this ambitious project. Tim Grundy will present the 30-part Building Dreams series, set to air towards the end of this year.

● Launched in January, Disney Channel's Incredible Story Studio inspired almost 1500 school children to use their imagination and get writing. This summer sees eight of the winning stories made into live-action dramas and animation, on Disney Channel this October, with the storywriters taking part in the television productions.

LONDON'S Royal Albert Hall has staged some spectacular events over the years, but there has been little to compare with the extraordinary line-up of musical talent which queued up to perform for Elizabeth Taylor last month.

Taylor may have put her film career on hold in recent years, but it took her just a few phone calls to assemble many of the world's most popular stars for a glittering fundraising concert – such is the aura which still surrounds the Hollywood movie queen.

Elton John, Jay Kay of Jamiroquai, Tony Bennett, Christina Aguilera, and Sting. These are just some of the stars who were quick to offer their services for the concert staged for AIDS charities in a week-long Liz Taylor celebration, during which she officially received the honour of Dame of the British Empire, announced in the Queen's New Year's Honours List.

Elizabeth Taylor – A Musical Celebration, which screens on Sky Premier this month, features the artists performing songs and music linked to her movies, backed by a 52-piece orchestra led by film score composer John Barry. Sky Cinema will also be paying its own tribute by screening a selection of her best-loved films, including Cat on a Hot Tin Roof and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?

Taylor, whose fundraising efforts over the years have seen tens of millions of dollars handed over to AIDS organisations worldwide, is ensuring all the proceeds from the concert will go to the Red Hot AIDS Charitable Trust and The Elizabeth Taylor AIDS Foundation.

The actress first began to champion the cause of AIDS

Many regard Elizabeth Taylor as the most glamorous of all Hollywood stars. But she would probably rather be remembered for her tireless charity work than for her services to cinema. Words: Tim Ewbank sufferers in the mid-Eighties after it was revealed that her great friend, actor Rock Hudson, was stricken with the disease.

The macho star had kept his sex life secret for fear he would get no more work if it was revealed. But as his life ebbed away, Liz would sit holding hands with him while he drifted in and out of consciousness, and she always kissed him on the cheek before leaving.

After Hudson's death in 1985, Taylor stepped into the front line of the war against the virus, setting up The Elizabeth Taylor AIDS Foundation and helping to launch The American Foundation for AIDS Research. 'AIDS is a cruel and tragic disease that indiscriminately consumes our friends, family and loved ones,' she has said. 'AIDS should be everyone's priority because as long as we don't have a cure, it is a time bomb that threatens our children, our society, even our economy,' she says.

She has done much to rid the AIDS issue of bigotry, fear and ignorance as well as tirelessly raising money. 'I do it 100 per cent with my heart, my soul and my hours of work and I never stop figuring out how to raise money,' says Taylor, who managed to entice £1m out of 500 guests at a dinner function in Switzerland by moving from table to table cajoling people to dip into their pockets and reach for their chequebooks.

She displayed a different kind of personal involvement when she heard of an AIDS patient who hadn't long to live and wanted a party on what would almost certainly be his last birthday. Taylor didn't just fork out for a party, she held it at her own house and played hostess as well.

In 1989 she toured AIDS wards in Bangkok, known as the world's sex capital, after learning how Thailand was struggling to beat the disease. She was shocked by what she saw but came away even more determined to do what she could to help. 'I cannot forget the look in the eyes of some of the young children I have seen condemned to death because of AIDS,' she said. 'We have to do all we can.'

And Liz herself is no stranger to illness. In private she spends much of her time in a wheelchair suffering from a chronic back complaint dating back to an injury sustained when making the film National Velvet in 1944.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR – A MUSICAL CELEBRATION
SUNDAY 4TH 8.00PM

Elizabeth's glorious reign

It's easily forgotten what a truly fine actress Elizabeth Taylor is. More column inches have been devoted to her marriages (eight in all, twice to Richard Burton), life-threatening illnesses and battles with booze, pills and her waistline, than to her impressive acting abilities. But in the Forties and Fifties, at a time when studios were peddling dreams to moviegoers who were enraptured by the glitz of Tinseltown, Taylor was glamour personified; she was a performer of incredible star quality, and the screen simply adored her.

The British-born Taylor made her debut in 1942, aged ten, in There's One Born Every Minute, and soon the astonishingly confident youngster was to charm audiences in a succession of well-received movies before gaining acclaim in the 1944 equestrian crowd-pleaser National Velvet. Taylor's fans watched her come of age on camera, and it wasn't long before the adorable girl had blossomed into an in-demand actress of quite breathtaking beauty.

She developed into an incredibly accomplished performer, contributing committed characterisations to prestige productions. It came as no surprise, then, when she started to rack up Oscar nominations for films such as Cat on a Hot Tin Roof (1958) and Suddenly, Last Summer (1959). But Taylor would have to wait until 1960 before she finally scooped the statuette for her smouldering portrayal of a call girl in Butterfield 8.

To play a prostitute was a bold move for this Hollywood sweetheart, but Taylor was commendably fearless in her commitment to tackling challenging, complex and often less than sympathetic roles.

One of her most memorable performances was in the 1966 Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?, a shockingly intimate portrait of a dysfunctional marriage for which she won her second Academy Award. It's a supremely uncomfortable but compelling experience watching Taylor rip herself to emotional shreds opposite real-life husband Richard Burton, who she met on the set of the multi-million-dollar historical epic Cleopatra.

Taylor's acting appearances are now very rare (she was last seen on the big screen in the 1994 live-action overhaul of The Flintstones) and as a result, the film world is a lot less rich and rewarding.

UK STYLE

A LA MODE
FROM MONDAY 12TH

Shebah's gotta have it

Style and taste run in the family for A La Mode presenter Shebah Ronay – her mother is a famous fashion designer, her grandfather a celebrated gastronome.

Interview: Pauline McLeod Picture: Mark Harrison

SHE SERVED her time as a fledgling siren on Channel 4's teen soap, Hollyoaks, currently puts her name to the Friday Mirror's weekly showbiz column and has the rather decorous-sounding role of artist's muse – her boyfriend is well-known portrait painter, Jonathan Yeo, son of Tory MP Tim Yeo.

Still, Shebah Ronay is much, much more than a 'MAW' – Model-Actress-Whatever – the label sometimes attached to beautiful creatures like herself. And although her lineage is impeccable (mum is the celebrated fashion designer Edina Ronay, grandad is Egon, he of food-guide fame), and she's a social butterfly with extremely well-connected friends, somehow Shebah doesn't quite cut it as an 'It' girl. For starters, she has to work for a living.

I suppose if you have to tag people, Shebah Ronay is more 'HOW' (Her Own Woman), feminine, friendly, and opinionated, with a wicked sense of humour. And given that she was weaned on high fashion and personal flair, that designer names trip off her tongue with the same ease as does being The Face of the 'George at Asda' range of clothing, it makes perfect sense that she should present the fashion series A La Mode for UK Style.

It sounds like an impossibly glamorous job, doesn't it? Reviewing the collections in Milan, New York, Paris; rifling through next season's wardrobe with the likes of British fashion icons Catherine Walker, Betty Jackson, Amanda Wakely and Elspeth Gibson; talking to parfumiers, jewellery and exclusive shoe designers, where the prices alone are enough to set pulses racing.

But guess what? 'It may look it on the outside,' says Shebah, 'but the reality is very, very different. What you don't see is me rushing from one interview to the next with a sandwich on my lap.

'For instance, the dog-grooming session we did at Peter's Posh Pets in Olympia could hardly be described as glamorous. Very smelly actually. We used a very sweet but very dirty Westie. Peter gave him a make-over using a special whitening shampoo, blow-dried his hair and gave him a doggy massage. The dog loved it.'

Twenty-seven-year-old Ms Ronay, who personally goes for 'clear and classic lines' and is certainly no fashion victim, sums up her own idea of what looks great quite simply: 'Be you through your own style and interpret whatever anyone has done for that season in your own individual style. It's much more interesting when someone has matched a bit of Top Shop with a bit of Prada with a bit of Elspeth Gibson than being clearly all in Gucci.

'I just find that very dull. It shows a huge lack of imagination on the wearer's part, because they've simply spent a lot of money and come out looking like an advert.'

'I've got two sides – the personal side and the stage act'

White-collar worker

His bizarre brand of comedy has made him a cult favourite on the stand-up comedy circuit, radio and TV. Nick Griffiths tracked down funny man Harry Hill to ask: 'If you're here, who's looking after the badgers … ?' Photography: Simon Rowe

HE TURNS up 20 minutes late for his interview, does Matthew Hall, sporting a baseball cap, jeans held up with an Elvis belt buckle, and one of those checked shirts your dad wears. 'Sorry, this one crept up on me,' he apologises, mutters something about dates and begins singing Yazoo's Nobody's Diary. Minutes later, he's back. The glasses are now black-rimmed, the shirt white and wide-collared, the jacket black and box-style, the shoes now brothel creepers.

It's like witnessing a superhero transformation, from mild-mannered Matthew Hall to ... quite barmy comedian Harry Hill! No 'Up, up and away!' catchphrases here though, more 'Will you the pork or would you the lamb?'

This is the comedian obsessed with snacks, meat, badgers and Savlon. Hill's act is one of one-liners, daft songs, celebrity puppets, high kicks, asides, fake family members and running gags. Baffled? Then check out his odd, whimsical debut Channel 4 series, which is revisited this month on the Paramount Comedy Channel.

This autumn, Harry Hill sets out on his umpteenth tour, shortly after the airing of his latest terrestrial television series. With such a wealth of material required, it's no wonder that he admits: 'I've got books and books of stuff.' No longer does he test his comedy routines out on wife Magda, however. 'She's had enough,' he smiles. 'I'm obsessed with comedy. I'm always itching to get upstairs [at home] to my little office, to write.'

But he doesn't. 'Well, no, I'm not allowed to. It has to be like that. Before I met my wife, I didn't really have any social life. I used to sit at home all day working, because I didn't have any outside interests. It's difficult getting out of that habit.'

Raised in Kent, one of a quintet of Halls, he started out on a very different career path, as a junior doctor at a South London hospital. So why did he choose medicine? 'Oooh,' he ponders, 'the TV image of doctors. Quincy was my big thing, the coroner. I just had a morbid interest in the deceased. I really enjoyed that aspect of it, dissecting the human body. But then, as a doctor, you were supposed to go to the post-mortem when any of your patients had died and I didn't like that at all. See them on the ward one day and the next, their liver is being weighed. I didn't go. Horrible.'

In fact, Matthew Hall hated being a doctor. 'The first few months were like wartime, really,' he says. 'Shells coming over, people dying and wounded …' Comedienne Jo Brand, once a psychiatric nurse, went into comedy to escape such grim reality. Matthew Hall, aged 35, had always just fancied it. As a child he chuckled along to Morecambe and Wise, The Generation Game and Basil Brush, then as a teenager set about reciting Monty Python sketches. He discovered Spike Milligan, a real connection, Hill notes, tellingly.

His own comedy career began as half of The Hall Brothers, in medical school revues. 'We did get one booking, at the Fruit and Nut Cabaret in Hampstead, were paid £1.00 each and had to take the compere home.' The partnership split, sidekick Robert Mills going off to write Q magazine's hi-fi page, among other things, and Harry Hill was created. He becomes quite sniffly when discussing the original stage suit, a Sixties three-buttoned affair from Oxfam with the seat worn to a shine.

The trademark outsized shirt-collar began when, overheating at an early gig, he ripped off a leather tie and undid several buttons – 'You can't just undo one button: showbiz, you know' – and hitched up the collar to make it seem larger than life. These days the garments are custom-made by Jack Dee's tailor.

Hill's first solo gig, an open-mic spot at a comedy club-cum-Mexican restaurant, found him with five minutes-worth of material. He told the first joke and got a laugh, 'which completely threw me'. By 1992 he was picking up the Perrier Best Newcomer Award, after which followed the BBC radio shows and short films, the Channel 4 series, several tours and enough awards to make the immodest blush. Now here he is, a last bastion of nerd-styled beauty on television's comedic map.

For someone who was once ensconced alone upstairs, he must have become rather confident. 'I've got two sides: there's the personal side and the stage act,' he explains. 'I can be quite shallow and embarrassed, and other times I can be annoyingly bumptious.' Harry Hill, bumptious …? What are the chances of that happening?

FRIENDS

HOLD ALL ACES

As the current series of Friends ends, a real-life cliffhanger has fans wondering whether the show will survive for a seventh series.

Words: Eirik Knutzen

Security is tighter than a gnat's eardrum on the Friends set at Stage 24 of the Warner Bros. Studios in hot and smoggy Burbank, about four miles down the road from Hollywood. Everyone connected with the US's highest-rating situation comedy is sworn to secrecy regarding the content of the last few episodes of the sixth season, the salary requirements of its six wealthy stars if they are to soldier on for a seventh, and whether or not there is to be a legitimate cliffhanger in the final episode, regardless of the outcome of these negotiations.

A stainless steel curtain was erected around Stage 24 in March when Bruce Willis began a three-episode stint on the show as Paul Stevens, the disapproving father of 20-year-old Elizabeth (Alexandra Holden), Ross's (David Schwimmer) new student and love interest. A source close to Warner Bros. claims that the three-episode plot, which concludes on Sky One this month, thickens when Ross discovers Stevens in a clinch with ex-girlfriend Rachel (Jennifer Aniston).

The subplot for the trio of Willis episodes apparently revolves around Joey's (Matt LeBlanc) new job as Mac Machiavelli, private eye on the new gumshoe TV series Mac & Cheese (Cheese being a malfunctioning robot with a penchant for accidentally punching Joey in the crotch). Willis (right with Schwimmer), who usually pockets a $20m pay cheque per picture, is reportedly earning a fraction of that amount for all three episodes – a sum so insignificant that he is said to be donating all of it to charity. Indeed, the star of box-office smash The Sixth Sense only consented to the job as a personal favour to Matthew Perry (Chandler), his co-star in the hit comedy film The Whole Nine Yards.

THE

Tom Selleck takes over as the star guest in the season finale, a project so secret that the script is officially referred to only as 'Season Finale' until airtime. Network insiders will only reveal that Selleck is back in his recurring role as Dr Richard Burke, the eye specialist and ex-boyfriend of Monica (Courteney Cox), who more or less dumped him for 'being too old'.

After running into Chandler and Monica in a restaurant, Dr Burke makes it his special mission to make their lives miserable. Despite this interference, Chandler and Monica are expected to wrap up the sixth series by tying the knot. The last episode of the season is straight and self-contained rather than being a cliffhanger, according to a Warner Bros. studio source, who claims: 'All production entities are proceeding as though there will be another season of Friends. They seem to think the salary situation for the principals will be resolved by the time the NBC network announces its 2000-01 schedule.'

And the money situation is hugely significant, as the number one show in America is virtually a licence to print money for Warner Bros. and NBC – as long as the actors don't get too greedy. It's anybody's guess what the intense secret negotiations between talent agents and television executives brought to the table, although David Schwimmer vehemently denied to BBC radio that the Friends principals asked for $1m each per episode (there are 22 shows per season). Negotiating as a team, as they have in the past, the ensemble cast apparently asked for a pay hike from a reported measly $120,000 each per episode to a respectable $800,000 next season.

The Friends gang, of course, are only asking for what they feel is their share of what the show is worth in domestic and worldwide syndication (some $500m, according to industry sources). The actors' representatives point out that the show has earned 20 Emmy Award nominations since its premiere during the 1994-95 season; the management team remind their adversaries that the series has only picked up two statuettes in that time. However the smart money in Hollywood is on one more season of Friends, and probably two.

If you want megabites try my fishcakes.

If you want a simple way to use the Internet try Internet Lite.

It was recipes Mabel went looking for when she first got connected to the Internet. And she found them in abundance. But then that's the Net for you – whatever you're looking for you'll find it on the Net.

And Internet Lite is the perfect place to start. Voted ISP (Internet Service Provider) of the month and best ISP over a six month period by Internet Magazine, it's an impressive little package; giving you fast access to the Web, newsgroups, five email addresses and 20mb of space to build your own site should you wish.

All for the princely sum of nothing. That's right, no monthly fees and no hidden costs. You just pay for the time you're online (at our local call rate). And if you ever need help you'll find our 24-hour helpline is only 4p a minute or less (and not the 50p or £1 per minute of most of our rivals).*

To get online, just call the number below and we'll send you a free CD-ROM, which will take you on a quick guided tour of the Net, before taking you through the simple installation process.

Now, getting on the Web is as easy as pie. Just ask Mabel.

Ranulph toughs it out

How would famed explorer Sir Ranulph Fiennes adjust to the rigours of Discovery Channel's ultimate test of endurance, the Eco-Challenge? Tim Ewbank met up with the great man to find out

SIR RANULPH Fiennes has displayed astonishing feats of physical and mental endurance on his way to earning his reputation as the world's greatest living explorer.

But the former SAS man – who has trekked on foot and unsupported to the North Pole, parachuted onto Europe's highest glacier and, in 1993, became the first man to reach the South Pole twice – almost came to grief on the very first day of his latest adventure because of … his socks.

Sir Ranulph had not long set off as a competitor in the Discovery Channel Eco-Challenge, a gruelling 318-kilometre adventure race across the wilds of Patagonia, Argentina, before the chafing of his socks caused appalling blisters on the balls of his feet. 'At the very first checkpoint the medical officer said I ought to be withdrawn from the race. But I wouldn't hear of it so they cut a hole in the blisters and injected them with Vaseline and I carried on.

'But later on I had to go through marshes, grit got into the blisters and after that my feet were always complaining. By the time I got to the finish of the race I was a complete cripple. Doctors then had to try to stop poison from getting into the blisters as grit had eaten into the flesh.'

The oldest competitor in the race at 55, Sir Ranulph was desperate not to let down his colleagues in the British Hi-Tec team as they kayaked, swam, rode on horseback, trekked, tackled white-water rafting and attempted a 1600 foot vertical mountain ascent in a blizzard.

'We got caught in a very bad storm 30,000 feet up on the peaks of the Andes,' says Fiennes. 'We were caught up there just as it struck, but even then I just felt how lucky I was to be in the team. I got a lot of ribbing about my age, of course, but I just put up with it. My main worry was not to let them down.

'Through sheer good luck my feet did not become unwalkable until I had to trek the last mile through a bamboo forest down to a lake where we got into canoes to reach the finish. That was lucky because you don't need to use your feet when you're canoeing.'

A total of 53 teams from 32 countries competed in the Eco-Challenge, with the winners taking just over five days to cross the finishing line. The highs, and some of the lows, of what is regarded as the world's toughest adventure race are featured on Discovery this month.

'According to the organisers it was the most competitive race they've ever held,' said Sir Ranulph, whose family motto is Look for a Brave Spirit. 'I realised before I took part that I was in danger of getting out of my depth, so I trained very seriously for it. Apart from my feet, it was a very enjoyable experience and I wouldn't have missed it for the world.'

For a man whose courage has never been found wanting, Sir Ranulph surprisingly admits that the moments he found least comfortable were on the peaks of the Andes. 'I don't like heights,' he confides, 'so for the climbing on fixed ropes they put me in the middle, someone in front of me and someone behind me.'

Other than that, the whole experience was so exciting he would love to enter again. 'But I can't go again this year,' he says sadly, 'because I've got bad frostbite and can't grip with one hand so I wouldn't be able to canoe.'

Fame and fortune offer no protection against heartbreak, as single girl Sandra Bullock has discovered.

Interview: Garth Pearce

You need hands: wild child Sarah (Sandra Bullock) gets to grips with the straight-laced Ben (Ben Affleck) in the sweet-natured, romantic road movie Forces of Nature (left)

SANDRA BULLOCK wears her heart not so much on her sleeve, as emblazoned across her forehead. This woman has been in love big-time. She's suffered agonies – including six days in bed on one occasion – mourning the end of relationships. Then there is her weight: down, up, down again. A big bottom, she swears, just longs to wriggle out of this svelte body.

Thirty-five-year-old Bullock was never meant to slip into a room unnoticed. It is easy to see why she has won over so many directors in a comparatively short time, graduating from small roles in TV and nondescript films to a major movie career. When we first met on her breakthrough film Speed in 1994, she was playing the girl next door who helped Keanu Reeves

Falling in love: Sandra Bullock and her Forces of Nature co-star Ben Affleck

Bullock is now something of a Hollywood player and it seems to suit her. She moved more than 1000 miles from Los Angeles to a stone cottage surrounded by 22 acres of land near Austin, Texas, which she is currently converting into something more spectacular.

'IT IS AMAZING HOW A BROKEN HEART CAN WRECK YOUR BODY'

prevent a maniac from blowing up a bus in Los Angeles. She had emerged from nowhere to star in the hit of the summer. Now she can command a hefty $12m fee for just one film.

Yet the money and power can't change one thing: Sandra Bullock still has the natural prettiness and manner of the cocktail waitress she was in New York just 11 years ago.

But there is a change of pace in Forces of Nature. 'It is going to end my career as a nice girl,' she told me at the film's launch. Well, not quite. She plays the sexy and impetuous Sarah, who meets straight-laced Ben (Ben Affleck) when he has just two days to get from New York to Savannah for his wedding.

Their plane skids out of control and he inadvertently saves her life. She decides to become his travelling companion as they try alternative modes of transport, from trains to buses to a rental car. A series of disasters looks like preventing him from getting to the wedding on time, and Ben is left to wonder if the forces of nature are conspiring to keep him single. And all the while he is being drawn to Bullock's wild Sarah. 'It is an insane movie,' she says. 'But I could not resist the opportunity to do it.'

From here she has launched Fortis Films and started producing her own projects rather than waiting to be offered a script. She delivered two films in swift succession: Hope Floats and Practical Magic, co-starring Nicole Kidman. For Forces of Nature, she was lured by Steven Spielberg's company, DreamWorks, to star with Affleck, who won an Oscar for co-writing Good Will Hunting.

Bullock can see the irony. The moment she stopped living the Hollywood dream, with endless meetings in the newly decorated film studio offices of the ever-changing power brokers, they started to come to her. But she has never been a devotee of hype.

She had a German mother, Helga, an opera singer who died at the age of 63 in April. She still regards both Bavaria and Washington DC as home, after a childhood during which she and her sister, Gesine, were often taken on tour around Europe. It was also with a mixture of Teutonic planning and homegrown values that she went into Fortis Films.

She elected, with her sister, to be in charge of development of ideas, while her American father, John, became her manager. 'I decided that Hollywood was no longer conducive to my mental health,' she says. I did not want to compromise any longer.'

Her personal life has been run along similar lines, including high-profile romances with actors Tate Donovan and Matthew McConaughey. 'With Tate, I chased him like a dog and was devastated when it ended after four years,' she reports. 'As for Matthew, we are back as friends now after four years together – which was where it started and should have remained.

'Matthew and I love each other very much, but in the end we were in two different places emotionally and could not be there enough for each other. Since then, I have been single. I know that single is not all it's cut out to be. To those who are married and say how great it must be to have freedom again, I say: "Don't even think about it."'

Bullock frankly describes her own experience of break-ups, knowing that all her fame and money do not soften the blow.

It is amazing how a broken heart and broken spirit can wreck your body,' she says. 'I have been through some crippling moments, lying awake wondering what the other person is doing. Do they love somebody else? Should I pick up the phone and hear their voice again?

'What works for me is that I know, one day, it will be fine. I pull my socks up, go into a new social atmosphere which can challenge me, stop thinking about the other person and try to move on with my life. My mother raised both my sister and myself not to depend on a man for anything. She told us: "Stay independent and when you do meet someone special, you can bring something to the table with you."' So far, she has brought a feast.

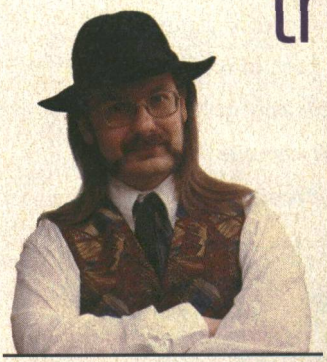
Watch this Spacey

Kevin Spacey was in supporting role limbo for years. But now, with two Oscars to his name, the most recent for his brilliant performance in American Beauty, he is regarded as one of the cinema's finest actors

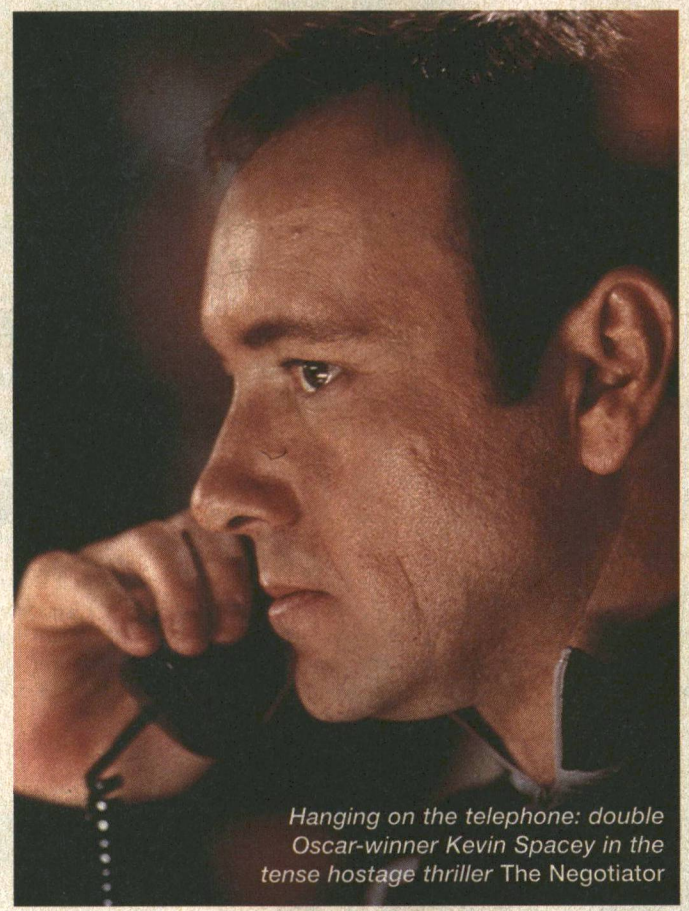


KIM NEWMAN ON ... KEVIN SPACEY

Back in 1992, the casting of the salesmen in the film of David Mamet's Glengarry Glen Ross strictly reflected the status of all the actors involved: the top-of-his-game star was Al Pacino; the glamorous comet was Alec Baldwin; the struggling veteran was Jack Lemmon; the solid worker who never gets a break was Ed Harris; and the jumped-up nobody given power of life and death over the others was Kevin Spacey. Eight years on, Spacey has a couple of Oscars – for Best Supporting Actor in The Usual Suspects and Best Actor this year in American Beauty.

Though he had done bits in the likes of Working Girl and Henry & June, it was Glengarry Glen Ross that elevated the slightly balding, slightly whiny Spacey into one of the cinema's few star character actors. Like Alec Guinness or Meryl Streep, Spacey is one of those players who enjoys being versatile, though he has an essential core that comes through whether he's cast as a nice-guy loser or a vicious psychotic. He's also among the most watchable actors working in American movies, even in lesser roles: precise in verbal and physical mannerisms, and confident with speeches, narration and dialogue exchanges.

No one can say that Kevin Spacey hasn't paid his dues: he's been a charming villain in a silly melodrama (Consenting Adults, where he's the neighbour who gets Kevin Kline into wife-swapping and crime); a comic foil in an underrated farce (The Ref, aka Hostile Hostages, where he and Judy Davis have a venomous marriage that requires the intervention of robber Denis Leary to get sorted out); a sidekick (Outbreak, as the scientist stooge to Dustin Hoffman who livens up the film before a flamboyant death scene); and a Disney dad (Iron Will, upstaged by a dog). He was also in a fact-based made-for-cable snoozer (Doomsday Gun) and a trashy John Grisham adaptation (A Time to Kill). His first starring role was in 1994 as the obnoxious Hollywood player in Swimming with Sharks, kidnapped and tortured by his abused personal assistant but talking his way out of the situation (a frequent Spacey character trait).



Hanging on the telephone: double Oscar-winner Kevin Spacey in the tense hostage thriller The Negotiator

Spacey became the archetypal reliable supporting actor with a trio of memorable roles: as 'Verbal' Kint (or is he?) in The Usual Suspects, where he's either a pathetic gangland hanger-on dreaming of a vast conspiracy or a supercrook of Fu Manchu proportions; as John Doe, the serial killer who walks into the police station two-thirds of the way through Seven and gives himself up, prompting a last act face-off with contrasting cops Morgan Freeman and Brad Pitt; and as Jack Vincennes, the casually corrupt but redeemable cop in LA Confidential, making an exit as surprising as his entrance in Seven, gunned down in mid-sentence with an eyebrow already arched for the next quip.

Having made it to the top of the name-after-the-title cast, Spacey took the time to direct his first feature, the crime drama Albino Alligator (in which he did not appear), play with Al Pacino again in Pacino's experimental Looking for Richard, do a cartoon baddie (the evil insect of A Bug's Life) and score a stage triumph in The Iceman Cometh in London and New York. He also got star status in his next pictures: as the Southern gay establishment figure in Clint Eastwood's lengthy Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil and opposite Samuel L Jackson in this month's Sky Premier debut The Negotiator. The latter is a big-budget, gun-waving action picture that would really like to be a low-budget independent movie about two intense actors confronting each other in a hostage situation. The film sees siege negotiator Jackson himself take hostages, bringing in Spacey to take him down.

This year, Spacey can be seen as the second-tier Hollywood sleaze in Hurlyburly – a return to the sort of parts he was taking five years ago. But he broke through as the defining screen actor of the turn of the century with his acclaimed turn in American Beauty, playing a middle-class father going off the rails and narrating his own last hours. Spacey is terrific in this picture, though there's still a sense that his best work might very well be ahead of him.

IN THE FRAME

SUPERGIRLY (AKA LOUISE McCLATCHY AND JAI SIMEONE)

What's your all-time favourite movie?
I like The Wedding Singer. Jai's into My Best Friend's Wedding. Jai's a bit of a romantic. I like romance too but I just love the clothes in The Wedding Singer – all the Eighties stuff.

What about your favourite actor?
Oh, probably Harrison Ford. We both like him because he's a guaranteed good night out.

What's your scariest movie moment?
The Bodyguard would come close to being our scariest film. Watching Whitney Houston acting was a pretty scary moment in film. And you knew she and Kevin Costner might kiss. Urgggh!

Do you like weepies?
Yes, we do. We both like that Sandra Bullock movie While You Were Sleeping.

Have you got a movie quote that you will always remember?
There's a really good bit in that Stephen King movie adaptation, Dolores Claibourne. She says, 'Sometimes being a bitch is all a woman has to hold onto.' Definitely perfect Supergirly material.

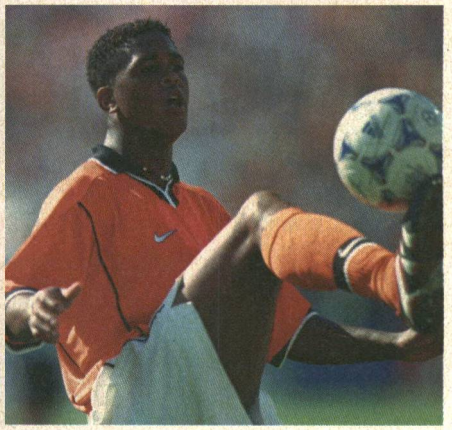
EURO 2000: LIVE and

There's a feast of football in store with this month's coverage of Euro 2000.

To set the scene, Gerry Cox previews six of the best live games you can catch on cable TV



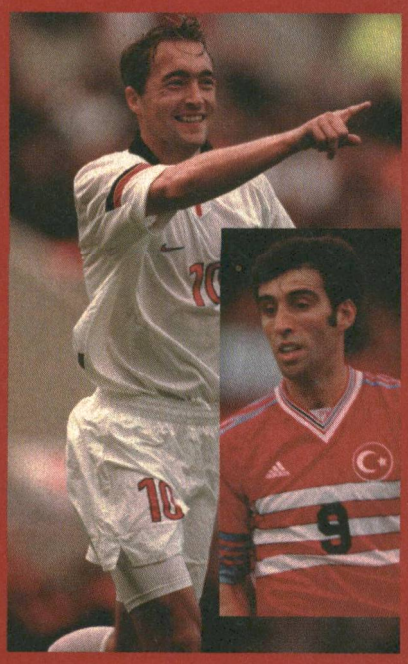
Dennis Bergkamp, Jaap Stam and Clarence Seedorf among the Dutch masters, they will be one of the best and most attractive sides on show. Their opening game is at the futuristic Amsterdam Arena on 11 June against the only side to have qualified with a 100 per cent record. The Czech Republic came so close to winning Euro 96, until Oliver Bierhoff's golden goal for Germany ended their hopes in the final, and they have since carried on their impressive form. Players to watch include Liverpool's Patrik Berger (above left), Vladimir Smicer and Lazio's Pavel Nedved.

NETHERLANDS v CZECH REPUBLIC

Holland are hot favourites to win Euro 2000, having home advantage and a side full of world-class players spread around some of Europe's top clubs. With Patrick Kluivert (top right),

TURKEY v BELGIUM

The Turks will go into the tournament as a side with few friends after the death of two Leeds fans before Galatasaray's UEFA Cup semi-final with Leeds in April. Brussels is the venue for their match against the joint hosts on 19 June, and security is sure to be tight around the stadium. Danger men include Hakan Sukur (inset) of Galatasaray and the Belgian striker Branko Strupar (below). The Turks lost only one game during qualifying – a humiliating home defeat against Finland – and will be looking to improve on recent poor showings in major championships, while Belgium will have their huge home support to keep happy.



PORTUGAL v ENGLAND

England's first match of Euro 2000, against Portugal in Eindhoven on 12 June, will show just how much progress Alan Shearer (below) and co have made. England reached the finals through the play-offs after a dismal performance in the qualifying stages, while the Portuguese won seven out of their 10 qualifiers and are known as the European Brazil, such is their flamboyant style. Despite the skills of Barcelona's Luis Figo (left) and Fiorentina's Rui Costa, however, Portugal have a habit of underachieving in major tournaments. But they have a good record against England over the years and caused a major upset when they beat Bobby Robson's side in their opening game at the World Cup Finals in 1986.

*All matches showing on Eurosport Also showing live on ITV2

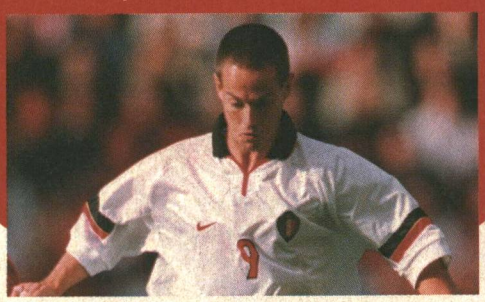
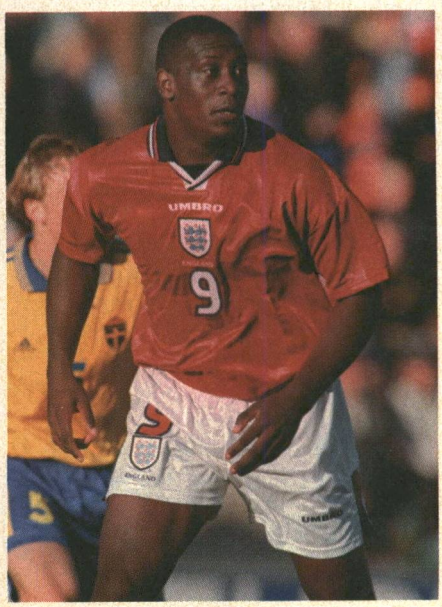
BELGIUM v ITALY

The Italians face a return to Brussels and the scene of the Heysel tragedy, where 39 Italian fans died before the 1985 European Cup Final between Liverpool and Juventus. The Italian press has been scathing about Dino Zoff's team, even though the Azzurri won their group and boast a host of stars, including Alessandro Del Piero (above) and Paolo Maldini. Their hosts, on the other hand, have not played a competitive match since the World Cup, and have been through major changes. Their stars include Branko Strupar of Derby and Sheffield Wednesday's Gilles De Bilde (below).



ENGLAND v ROMANIA

Romania are the only side to have beaten England outright – not on penalties – in a tournament since Sweden knocked Graham Taylor's side out of the 1992 European Championship. Dan Petrescu of Chelsea got the last-minute goal that sank England during the 1998 World Cup group stages and dented the hopes of Glenn Hoddle's side. But under Kevin Keegan, England are likely to have a few changes for this game in Charleroi on 20 June. Liverpool's Emile Heskey (below) will probably be competing with Kevin Phillips or team-mate Michael Owen to start up front, while Kieron Dyer and Rio Ferdinand are also pushing for places. Romania's best players, such as Gheorghe Hagi and Gheorghe Popescu, are coming to the end of their careers, and the danger man is likely to be Valencia striker Adrian Ilie, also known as the 'Cobra'.



NETHERLANDS v DENMARK

Rotterdam plays host to the encounter between Holland and Denmark on 16 June. The Danes completed a fairy tale victory worthy of Hans Christian Andersen when they won the 1992 European Championship after entering at the last minute as replacements for war-torn Yugoslavia. They beat Holland in the semi-finals that year, but no longer have players of the quality of the Laudrup brothers, although Peter Schmeichel (right) is still a huge presence in goal. The match promises to be a colourful occasion, with the sea of orange that accompanies the Dutch team in their home country, and the Danish fans, complete with painted faces and Viking helmets, hoping for another major upset.

ENGLAND'S European Goal

Can England go all the way in Euro 2000? Marc Isaacs asks the experts to make their predictions for this month's European Championships

GARY MABBUTT

Former Spurs captain and England

How will England do?
I think we have as good an opportunity as anyone. We showed in Euro 96 we are not too far away from winning it. England may have slipped to 13th in the World rankings, but there is no reason why we shouldn't come away with at least a semi-final place.

Which country will win Euro 2000?
Germany are always the team to fear. You can never write them off during a championship.

Any dark horses?
England. We are not one of the favourites to win it and there are only 16 teams taking part. Sweden will also be a force to be reckoned with as they have a lot of quality players in their side.

Star players?
England will obviously have Michael Owen, who will be hoping to carry on where he left off at the World Cup. German midfielder Jeremies will also be a major threat.

What's your fondest European Championship memory?
The Euro 96 game between England and Scotland. I was there and saw Gazza scoring that amazing goal. You could sense the whole country getting behind the team.

What's your prediction for England v Germany?
It would be nice to beat them on penalties again. We certainly owe them. I predict a 2-1 victory for England.

IGOR STIMAC

West Ham and captain of Croatia

How will England do?
They have been changing their players a great deal and they still don't know what their best side is. It will depend on injuries, but I'm sure they will do well because they have quality players. Keegan will have a headache if everyone is available to pick from.

Which country will win Euro 2000?
Holland are the most impressive side. They were the biggest suprise in the last World Cup – they played very well and deserved to win it. I think they will win Euro 2000.

Any dark horses?
Portugal are the biggest dark horses for this tournament. I think they will suprise a few people and go quite a long way in the tournament.

Star players?
Portugal's Luis Figo is one of my favourite players at the moment. He has got great skill and is one to look out for this summer.

What's your fondest European Championship memory?
Croatia's game against Germany in Euro 96, which we unfortunately ended up losing. We were the better side during the game and I got sent off, but it is a game I will always remember.

What's your prediction for England v Germany?
England has the better side at the moment. I recently played against Germany and I was not too impressed with them. They have too many older players and they need to change things round.

TREVOR STEVEN

Former Everton and England

How will England do?
England's qualifying form was not particularly good and I think we are fortunate to be there. But the expectation still remains high for us and I would hope there is enough quality to give us an outside chance.

Which country will win Euro 2000?
On home territory, I would have to go with Holland and I think it will prove a decisive factor. It always seems to in these Championships. The Dutch squad has got a lot of quality.

Any dark horses?
Portugal, simply because they have Luis Figo in their side. He is an exceptional player and any team will have a chance of winning the trophy with him in their line-up.

Star players?
I would like to see an England player like David Beckham or Emile Heskey shine out and make a real name for themselves. Zidane of France has also got a lot of quality and could be the star man again.

What's your fondest European Championship memory?
The match that everyone remembers – the Euro 96 Championship game between England and Scotland. Paul Gascoigne scored that great goal and it set the whole place alight.

What's your prediction for England v Germany?
It is always difficult against Germany. I have been to the stadium where the game will be played and I think it will suit us, because it is very much like the Lens stadium where England beat Colombia in the World Cup.

TERRY BUTCHER

Former Rangers captain and England

How will England do?

If England can get past the first stage, they will have a very successful tournament. The squad is very good on paper, but not good enough collectively. I think Kevin Keegan should use the opportunity to bed the youngsters in.

Which country will win Euro 2000?

I fancy Holland to win it and feel they have got a very good squad. But they did suprise me when they failed to score against Scotland in a recent friendly.

Any dark horses?

Spain are outsiders for me to win the tournament. They qualified very comfortably, beating Italy 2-0 in the process, and have players from Valencia, Barcelona and Real Madrid who have dominated the Champions League this season.

Star players?

I can see French striker Nicolas Anelka making a real impact along with Luis Figo of Portugal. Holland have a real threat with Bergkamp and Kluivert and the Spanish duo of Morientes and Raul will also be the star players on show.

What's your fondest European Championship memory?

Euro 96 and the game between England and Spain at Wembley. I went to see it and there was an incredible atmosphere. The hairs on the back of my neck still stand on end when I think about it.

What's your prediction for England v Germany?

0-0. It will be a tight affair and I don't think there will be too many opportunities. I can see the majority of England's games being the same.

David Beckham, one of the most feared players in the England squad

Will Emile Heskey get the chance to shine in Euro 2000?

JOE KINNEAR

Former Wimbledon manager

How will England do?

I think they will do well to get through the initial group phase. People underestimate the strength of the teams they are up against and they will need to start well to stand a chance.

Which country will win Euro 2000?

France have to be my favourites. They surprised a few when they won the World Cup two years ago, but they look even better now and have the confidence of a team who expect to win every game they play.

Dark horses?

The European Championships always throw up an unlikely success story. It could come from Spain this time. We have seen in the Champions League, with three of their teams reaching the semi-finals, that there is a lot of attacking quality there.

Star players?

With France as my favourites it could be a Frenchman such as Thierry Henry or Zinedine Zidane. Figo and Raul are also ones to watch for me. If England do well, Tony Adams could be a star at the back.

What's your fondest European Championship memory?

That's a tough one because there have been so many. All I can say is that I'm looking forward to this Championship more than most, and I intend to be there to see which players to sign when I return to management.

What's your prediction for England v Germany?

Another tough call. The Germans have been written off by most as an ageing team. But they are always at the forefront when the whistle blows and I think this could end in a very tight draw.

MY MOST MEMORABLE MATCH

Sky Sports' Nationwide League football commentator Rob Hawthorne recalls the Division Two play-off final between Gillingham and Manchester City at Wembley in May of last year. Interview by Ross Biddiscombe

'There are very few decent play-off finals, and it's not surprising because the tension gets to the players through the fans. There is so much at stake, and the first half of this game was awful.

'When Gillingham were 2-0 up, I remember saying "they're on the brink of history," and that was no understatement.

'The Kent team had never made it to either of the top two divisions, and City looked out of it, even when they pulled back to 2-1 very late on.

'Then, amazingly, during a long period of stoppage time, Paul Dickov equalised by shooting past Gillingham's Vince Bartram. In the long run, this turned out to be the defining moment in City's history because they easily won the penalty shoot-out [and have since made it into the Premier League].

'I remember being surprised by how many fans Gillingham brought to the game because they aren't known for big crowds. Then there was the passion of the City fans. You have to admire them for turning up in such numbers throughout the bad times, although some had left the ground before they got back to 2-2. The gatemen actually had to let them back into Wembley.'

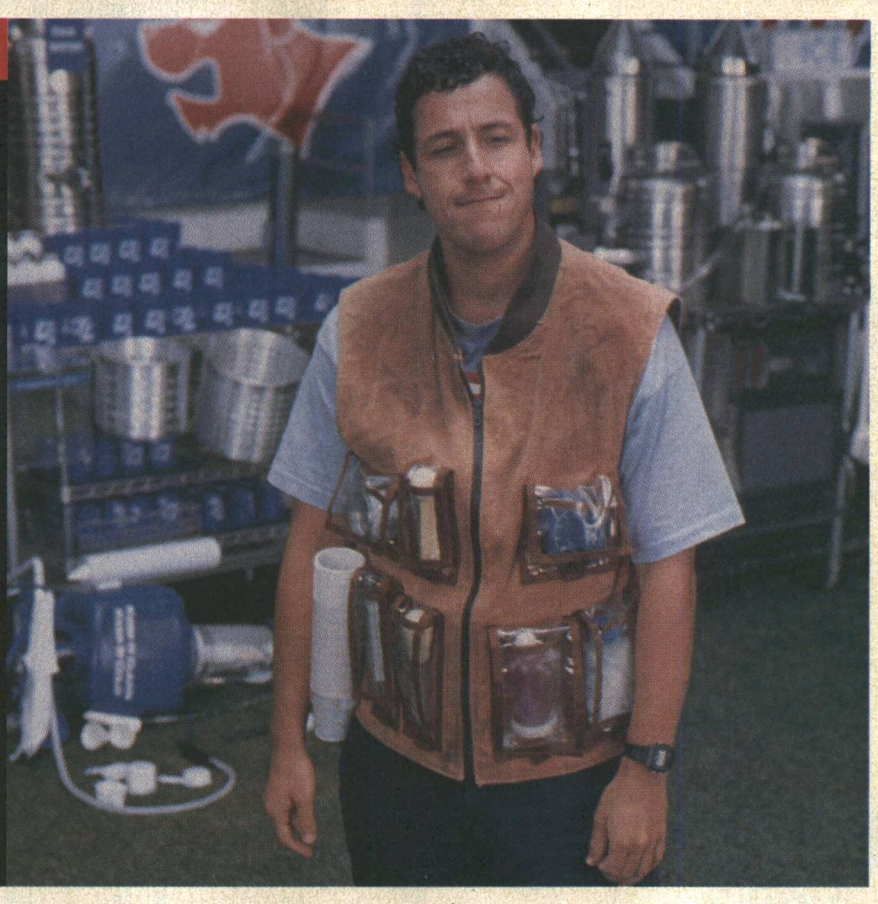
Week 1

Thursday 1st June-Friday 9th June

Sweet and lowbrow



A graduate of American TV's prestigious laughter academy Saturday Night Live, Adam Sandler's brand of comedy relies neither on subtlety nor sophistication, but instead trades in the unapologetically infantile – often, it has to be said, to uproariously funny effect. But for all their lowbrow situations, Sandler's movies are usually, at their core, warm-hearted affairs. And that's especially true of Front Row's premiere of The Waterboy, an exuberant sports comedy (Sandler's second, his first was the golfing farce Happy Gilmore) in which his little man triumphs. He plays the dim-witted waterboy for a no-hope college American football team who becomes the star player after discovering his hitherto untapped tackling abilities. The broad slapstick and Sandler's silly voice may summon memories of Jerry Lewis, who also made a fairway comedy, The Caddy, and whose That's My Boy saw his klutzy character become an unlikely American football hero. But (again as in many of Lewis's movies) amid all The Waterboy's defiantly broad comic clutter, there's a commendable compassion for the underdog.

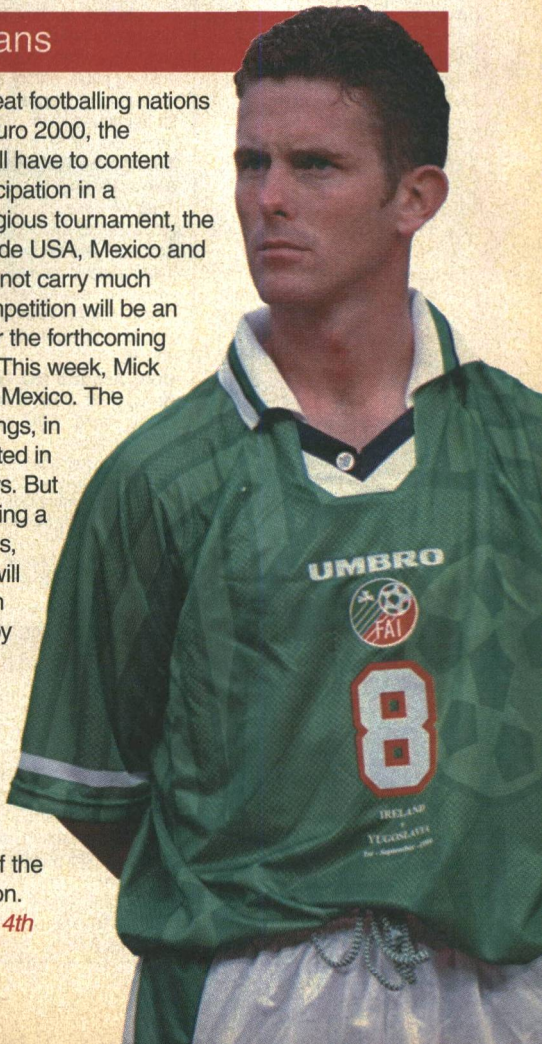
Angel's delights come to an end

This week, Angel, the excellent Buffy the Vampire Slayer spin-off, comes to the end of its current run on Sky One, with an episode entitled To Shansu in LA. In the short time it has been on the air, the show has succeeded in carving out its own unique identity; it has been blessed with some skilfully crafted scripts, and the artfully brooding camerawork intensifies its dark, sombre atmosphere. But Angel is not just a designer mood piece, it is often lightened by moments of well-judged humour. David Boreanaz copes brilliantly with these shifts in tone, and it is his thoughtful evocation of the title character – a tortured vampire hoping to atone for centuries of sins on the streets of LA – that is the real key to the show's deserved success.

Sky One Friday 2nd 9.00pm

Irish-Americans



While many of the great footballing nations are battling it out in Euro 2000, the Republic of Ireland will have to content themselves with participation in a somewhat less prestigious tournament, the Nike US Cup, alongside USA, Mexico and South Africa. It might not carry much credibility, but the competition will be an excellent rehearsal for the forthcoming World Cup qualifiers. This week, Mick McCarthy's men face Mexico. The teams' last two meetings, in 1996 and 1998, resulted in tightly contested draws. But the Irish side are looking a lot stronger these days, and their opponents will be forced to cope with the problems posed by one of the most formidable midfield units on the international stage, with Roy Keane and Charlton skipper Mark Kinsella (right), patrolling the centre of the park with determination.

LIVE EURO TOUR GOLF: COMPASS GROUP ENGLISH OPEN
SKY SPORTS 3 10.30AM, 3.00PM

by Ross Biddiscombe

The Compass Group English Open tees off today and Darren Clarke (pictured, left) of Northern Ireland will be defending the title he won last year, when he beat the popular Englishman John Bickerton (pictured, right) by just two strokes. Many of the top players will turn up again this year at the Marriott Forest of Arden Hotel to contest the prize money of 1,250,000 euros. The weather in the past has failed to live up to summer's promise, so this could be a crucial factor.

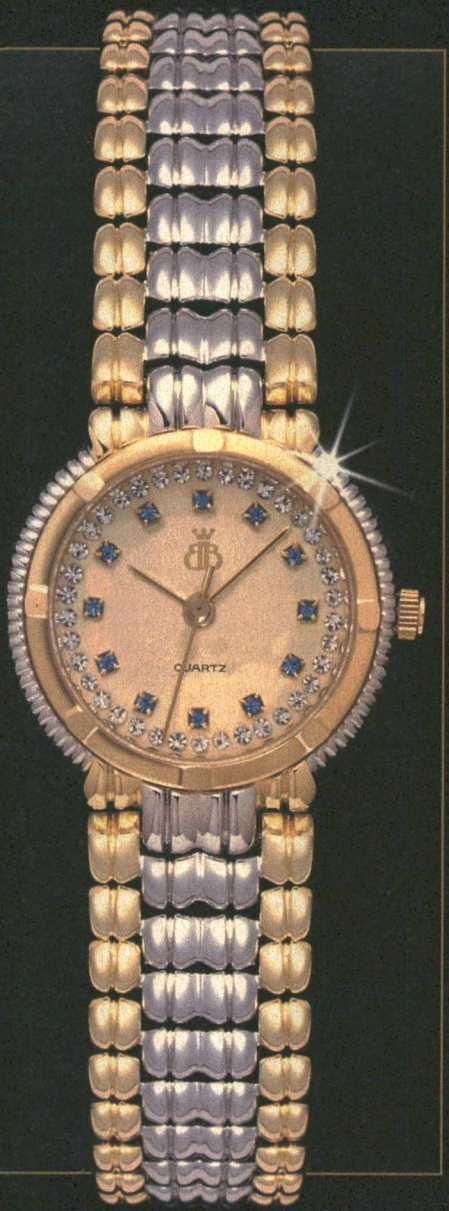
Announcing a stunning new masterpiece, exclusively from Brooks & Bentley

The Jewelled Ladies Watch



Shown larger than actual size of 7½" (19.2cm) in length.

An enchanting timepiece ablaze with a dazzling display of sparkling crystals

Prestigious ladies watches have always been greatly desired and admired, and so it is with great pleasure that Brooks & Bentley announce The Jewelled Ladies Watch. A distinguished and feminine new timepiece hand-crafted especially for you with an elegant dual coloured bracelet of gleaming silver and gold tones.

Ablaze with a dazzling display of thirty-eight sparkling white crystals, gracefully surrounding the rich cream coloured dial, this magnificent new timepiece creates a priceless work of art to treasure for all eternity. All finished to perfection with twelve radiantly beautiful, sky blue crystals glittering like stars in the distant heavens.

Elegance and sophistication - hallmarks of Brooks & Bentley

The Jewelled Ladies Watch is available to you at the special introductory price of only £88.00* and is payable in four convenient interest-free monthly instalments. Each spectacular watch is fitted with a precision quartz movement to ensure perfect time and comes complete with a luxurious presentation case and a Certificate of Authenticity attesting to its valued status as a Brooks & Bentley original.

To acquire The Jewelled Ladies Watch in all its sparkling perfection, please telephone our 24 Hour Express Order Line on 0870 444 0011 today, or if you prefer, simply complete and return your reservation form below by 31st July, 2000. You need send no money now.

LIVE INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL: MALTA V ENGLAND SKY SPORTS 2 2.00PM

Warm-up matches for major football championships have taken on a greater significance recently with so much hype surrounding good or bad performances by squad players. England's match against Malta at the Ta' Qali stadium will be analysed with much scrutiny by the media circus that follows the team. Young men like Emile Heskey (pictured), Rio Ferdinand and Michael Owen may be called upon to prove fitness or form with a convincing victory expected.

LOVE STARS BY MARGIE THILLART

JUNE BIRTHDAYS
1st Pamela Anderson 7th Tom Jones
9th Michael J Fox 15th Helen Hunt
20th Nicole Kidman 22nd Meryl Streep

Sensational ★★★ Stimulating ★★ Satisfactory ★

Aries
21 March-20 April ★★
MERCURY provides the perfect link between you and your loved ones. No matter how delicate the problem, you can open up the lines of communication with total confidence and expect any differences to be patched up easily.

Taurus
21 April-21 May ★
RATHER than letting others see straight into your heart, you will be more inclined to put on a performance. With your emotions in a fragile state this month, you will side-step problems and opt instead for solitary confinement.

Gemini
22 May-21 June ★★
YOUR clever way with words may not get you off the hook entirely, but it will go a long way to easing the punishment. Your stars suggest some of you may be caught out in a lie, while others are exposed for their offhand behaviour.

Cancer
22 June-23 July ★★
EARLY in the month Mercury favours planning over direct action. But in the latter half, Venus in your sign suggests you should circulate more and network ideas. There is special magic in the air when it comes to romance.

Leo
24 July-23 August ★★
YOUR passion is what makes you stand out from the crowd, but it is often your undoing. Try not to turn trifling issues into major dramas this month, or there could be a backlash later. Think carefully before you speak or act.

Virgo
24 August-23 September ★★
YOU may feel the tide is turning in your favour, but will also be aware that nothing comes easy. Enlist the help of loved ones with a project that is close to your heart, but be prepared to set an example for them to follow.

Libra
24 September-23 October ★★★
LIVE in the moment and be aware of what is happening around you. As your sign leaves a dreamy phase behind and heads into more realistic territory, you will savour time spent with the people you love the most.

Scorpio
24 October-22 November ★★
PASSION and power are your two most outstanding traits, which means you are either loved or loathed by others. And while your mood may be more low-key than usual this month, you can still expect to be the centre of attention.

Sagittarius
23 November-22 December ★★
BECAUSE you will be brimming with energy and excitement, your behaviour is likely to scare the life out of passive loved ones. Allow your positive light to shine on others, but be careful you do not overwhelm their senses.

Capricorn
23 December-20 January ★★
THIS month's stars are not for the faint-hearted, but fortunately yours is one of the tougher signs. Let the caustic comments of others go right over your head and make emotional decisions based on your own best interest.

Aquarius
21 January-19 February ★★★
YOUR heart may go into meltdown at the loving words or gestures of an admirer. Normally you are not easily seduced by romantic overtures, but with provocative Mars in your pleasure zone your defences will be well and truly down.

Pisces
20 February-20 March ★★
THE secret this month is not to get swept up in the moment, but to make deliberate decisions. Your romantic future may be on the line, or you will be faced with an important choice. Either way, impulsive action could have drastic repercussions.

LIVE FORD GOLF USA: KEMPER OPEN SKY SPORTS 2 8.00PM

LIVE TEST CRICKET: ENGLAND V ZIMBABWE – SECOND TEST
SKY SPORTS 1 10.30AM, 1.30PM

With England's performances taking a pounding in the press all winter, this contest between Nasser Hussain's (pictured, left) men and touring Zimbabwe (whose Murray Goodwin is pictured, right) offers a chance of redemption. The final day of the second Test starts this morning with both teams looking for a confidence-boosting victory before hoping for better things against better opposition later in the year. David Gower introduces the action from Trent Bridge, Nottingham.

LIVE NIKE US CUP: USA V REPUBLIC OF IRELAND SKY SPORTS 1 12.30AM

The Nike US Cup is a four-way tournament that includes the USA, the Republic of Ireland (whose Robbie Keane is pictured), Mexico and South Africa. Tonight, Mick McCarthy's men take on their hosts at the Foxboro Stadium, Massachusetts. America have a good record against the Irish, winning their last encounter 2-1 back in June 1996. This game may be equally close and should provide the Irish with valuable match practice before the World Cup qualifiers in the autumn.

borrow £20,000 for just £187 a month

If you're thinking about borrowing a large sum of money but you don't want to lose control of your own finances, then it makes sense to talk to someone you know you can trust. Someone like Black Horse Finance.

We have your interests in mind and you can depend on us to offer you a safe and responsible way to borrow the amount you need.

With our secured Homeowner Loan you could afford to purchase almost anything you have your eye on, or you could reorganise other loans and credit into one affordable monthly repayment.

You can borrow from £20,000 to £50,000 at 9.9% APR (variable), and choose to spread the repayments for up to 20 years. Loans from £3,000 to £19,900 are also available at other rates. An optional Payment Protection Plan can cover your payments in the event of death, illness, accident, compulsory redundancy (or hospitalisation if self-employed).

If you would like to apply for a loan, you can call us free on 0800 378 151 9am-9pm Mon-Fri, 10am-5pm Sat-Sun or for hearing or speech impaired customers with their own textphone, call 0800 731 7098. Alternatively, complete and return the coupon below. Either way we won't ask you for an interview or charge an arrangement fee.

LIVE FORD GOLF USA: BUICK CLASSIC
SKY SPORTS 2 9.00PM

The fairways of the Westchester Country Club in Harrison, New York, are the setting for this year's $2.8m Buick Classic. In the 1999 event, Duffy Waldorf (pictured, left) got the better of his childhood pal and Tour rival Dennis Paulson (pictured, right) with a dramatic 18-foot putt on the last green to take the trophy. Waldorf, the man who has made a name for himself on the US Tour by wearing loud clothing, is one American player on the fringe of breaking into the big time.

FILM

Beverly Hills Ninja
Carlton Cinema 9.00pm

The late Chris Farley was given the opportunity to indulge his talent for physical comedy in this sublimely silly riff on the clichés of kung fu cinema. He is the accident-prone oaf of the title who is hired by default to follow the seedy English boyfriend of Nicolette Sheridan.

GENERAL

Married... With Children
Paramount Comedy 9.00pm

The unwholesome Bundy family are back for their fifth series in the sitcom described by its creator as 'a show that no-one is going to learn anything watching'. A cynic's view of the institute of marriage which makes The Simpsons look like The Waltons.

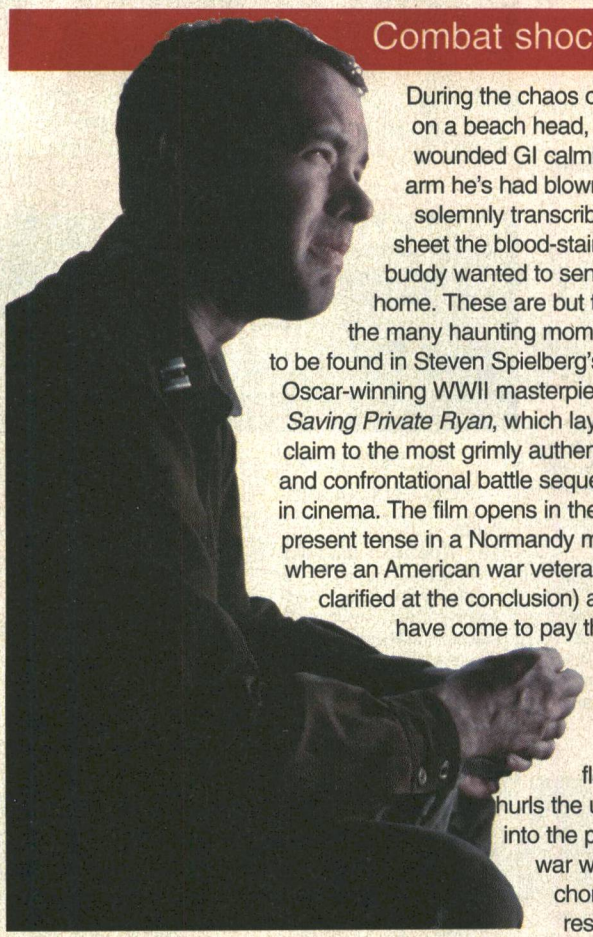
Week 2

Saturday 10th June-Friday 16th June

Combat shock



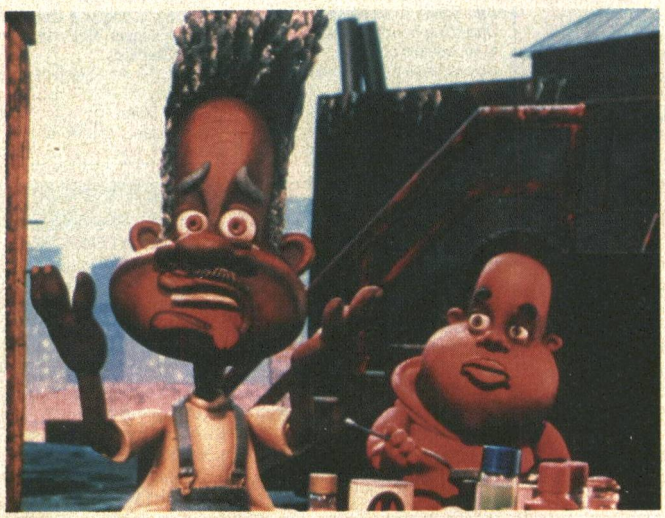
During the chaos of heavy enemy fire on a beach head, a bewildered, wounded GI calmly searches for the arm he's had blown off. A soldier solemnly transcribes onto a fresh sheet the blood-stained letter a dead buddy wanted to send home. These are but two of the many haunting moments to be found in Steven Spielberg's Oscar-winning WWII masterpiece Saving Private Ryan, which lays claim to the most grimly authentic and confrontational battle sequences in cinema. The film opens in the present tense in a Normandy memorial cemetery, where an American war veteran (whose identity is clarified at the conclusion) and his family have come to pay their respects to his fallen comrades. From this quiet, mournful intro, the film enters flashback mode and hurls the unsuspecting viewer into the pandemonium of war with a brilliantly choreographed restaging of the landings on Omaha Beach, Normandy. This intense sequence is unrelenting in its assault on the senses; the stuttering cuts of Oscar-winning editor Michael Kahn and the edgy, up-close-and-personal camerawork of Janusz Kaminski (who also scooped a deserved statuette) combine to evoke the confusion and horror of combat and lend the film a jolting immediacy. There is no room for poetic symbolism here; men are seen dying dirty, senseless, painful deaths. After this onslaught, which takes up almost 25 minutes of screen time, the film falls in with Captain John Miller (Tom Hanks) and his seven-man squad, who are sent to find the character of the title (Matt Damon) with only the vaguest information as to his whereabouts. As the men search war-torn France for Ryan, tensions begin to run high over what they consider an irresponsible, unnecessarily dangerous 'public relations' mission. Spielberg strikes a skilful balance between the epic and the intimate and mounts the savage spectacle of the battle scenes without sacrificing attention to human detail. And he encourages convincing performances from a great cast, with headliner Hanks skilfully injecting a mixture of war-weary cynicism and affecting sadness into his character. A film of searing, indelible power.

Sky Premier Saturday 10th 10.00pm

On the foam front

The funky animated sitcom The PJs, which is set in and around an inner city housing project, revels in the earthy, streetsmart wit of its creator, wise-cracking comic actor Eddie Murphy (who supplies the voice of project supervisor Thurgood Stubbs). The characters are hilariously observed and have a real dimensional quality – they are fashioned in foam and brought to life through the wonders of Foamation. In this Saturday's episode, Journal Fever, Thurgood's wife Muriel comes down with flu.

Sky One Saturday 10th 8.30pm



What price European glory?

England begin their bid for European glory on Monday when they take on Humberto Coelho's Portugal at the Philips Stadium in Eindhoven. Steve McManaman (pictured) will be wanting to impress after recent inspirational performances for Real Madrid earned him praise from England coach Kevin Keegan. The national side will be hoping they can repeat their victory in the two teams' classic encounter in the 1966 World Cup semi-final, which England won 2-1 thanks to an impressive brace by Bobby Charlton. The Portuguese rarely enjoy the praise of higher-profile international sides, and they will be determined to stamp their presence on the competition. Players to look out for include Luis Figo, whose pace could trouble the England defence. But it is Portugal's visionary passing game that really impresses, though they lack the finishing capabilities of their opponents. That said, Coelho opted for a more attacking style of play in Portugal's friendly against Denmark in March, and it paid dividends – their aggression resulting in a 2-1 victory. Eurosport Monday 12th 7.30pm – LIVE

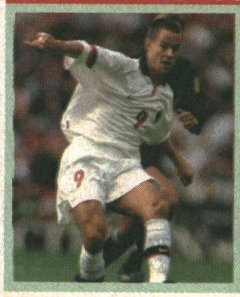
LIVE EURO 2000: BELGIUM V SWEDEN EUROSPORT 7.30PM



The opening game of Euro 2000 features the hosts, but this tournament is a co-hosted event, so Belgium take centre stage against Sweden tonight while the Netherlands play tomorrow. The opening ceremony, which began an hour and a half earlier, will have made the players even more nervous than usual, so these first games are usually pretty ordinary. Belgium's Gilles de Bilde (pictured, left) and Sweden's Fredrik Ljungberg (pictured, right) will do their best to change this pattern.

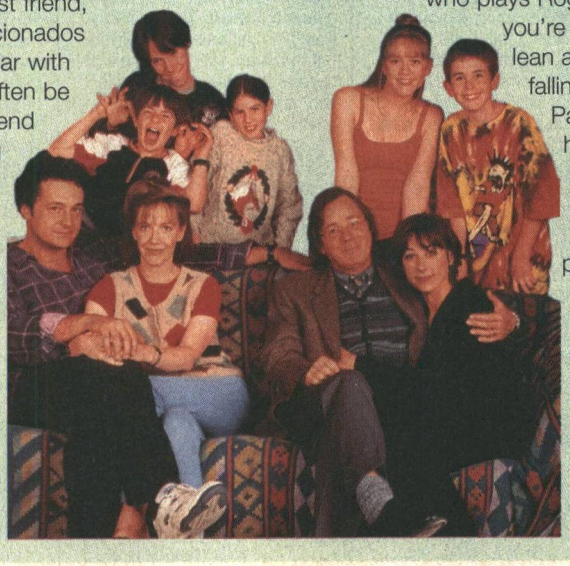
Microsoap madness!

As Microsoap returns to Disney Channel with a new series, Cable Guide goes on set for the lowdown behind the scenes

MULTI-COLOURED BALLOONS are floating around, disco lights are flashing and music is booming out of the loudspeakers – the cast and crew of Microsoap are having a whale of a time filming the second series of the award-winning show.

Well-known faces can be seen wandering around the set, rehearsing lines and grabbing a coffee in the studio canteen. But one face in particular stands out as unfamiliar. Shauna Shim joins the Microsoap cast (below) in the second series as Emily's best friend, Lisa. Microsoap aficionados will already be familiar with Lisa as she could often be heard on the other end of the phone talking to Emily in series one. For Shauna (pictured left, on the right), this was all rather bizarre. 'When I came on set on my first day there were people telling me I was exactly how they pictured Lisa to be,' she recalls. 'I didn't know that she was on the phone to Emily in the last series. But I was allowed to make her my own creation. She's cool and funky!'



Shauna, who turns 21 this year, was born in Miami, America, and, aged ten, moved to the UK where she joined a local drama group. Having lived with her large family in Nottingham, Shauna can readily identify with the chaotic life in Microsoap. 'People were going in and out all the time,' she says. 'It was insane at times, but I couldn't imagine it any other way.'

As for Microsoap's seasoned pros, the challenge of working in a quirky house with slanted walls and oddly-shaped doors doesn't get any easier. 'Microsoap is really wacky,' beams Lucy Evans, who plays Roger's daughter, Felicity. 'When you're trying to act naturally and lean against a wall, you end up falling straight back!'

Paul Terry, aka Joe, reveals how he maintains some light relief on set: 'I like playing practical jokes,' he giggles. 'Once there was a water pistol in my dressing room that I filled up and sprayed everyone with. I'm not that horrid though, I'm nice really!' It sounds like the madness of Microsoap might be more realistic than we thought!

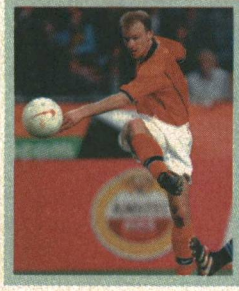
LIVE EURO 2000: NETHERLANDS V CZECH REPUBLIC EUROSPORT 7.30PM



Co-hosts – and probably favourites – the Netherlands face the Euro 96 runners-up, the Czech Republic, this evening in a match that could easily grace the final next month. The Dutch ultimately disappointed in the World Cup two years ago, but playing at home in Amsterdam tonight should help them get off to a great start. Much is expected of Dennis Bergkamp (pictured, left), while Patrik Berger (pictured, right) needs to continue his impressive Liverpool form for the Czechs.

Tia and Tamera Mowry couldn't wait to visit Paris during their recent stay in the UK. Cable Guide says Salut! to the twin stars of Sister Sister

Sister act

A TRIP to Paris was at the top of their wish list when celebrity twins Tia and Tamera visited the UK recently. The duo, famed for their comedy series Sister Sister on Nickelodeon, were in heaven when they finally got to take in the French capital.

'We went to one of the places we've always dreamed of going,' beams Tia. 'Paris was beautiful. We saw the Eiffel Tower and Sacré Coeur – it was like walking into a fairytale. I had an enormous grin on my face!'

Practising the local lingo was also a top priority whilst in town. 'We love the French language and we had this whole conversation with a local taxi driver,' Tia explains. 'It was cool! He made us work really hard to speak the language and corrected us when we made a mistake.'

Tia and Tamera, who turn 22 next month, have grown up a lot since Sister Sister began almost eight years ago, recently moving into their own house in Malibu. Although the family home is only just down the road, Tamera still finds it odd not having her brothers around. 'It's that first big move,' she says, 'and I miss my brothers running to give me a hug whenever I come in the front door.'

The sisters' careers began in Texas when they were 12. They progressed from local pageants and talent contests onto off-broadway shows and US top 40 chart success before becoming household names with Sister Sister. Now the twins are concentrating on making movies and music. 'We have this natural chemistry that you just can't make up,' smiles Tamera.

But if you think that all the fame must surely go to their heads, you'd be mistaken. Tia and Tamera are as level-headed as they come, and, as Tamera declares, that is largely down to the influence of their parents. 'Our Mum would say, "OK, you're riding in limos and all that stuff, but when you get home you are going to do the dishes." To this day we still do the housework!'

Neither of the girls has a boyfriend at the moment. 'We've only had one boyfriend each in our lives,' confesses Tia, 'and that was hell!' But they can't be short of offers. 'Oh, yes, we get male fans sending us stuff, but nothing from a significant other,' admits Tamera.

No longer inclined to dress alike, the twins, whilst still strikingly identical, each retain a sense of individuality. 'Tia's dress sense is more funky and I tend to be more conservative,' says Tamera. 'But we do share the same wardrobe, so we have twice as much stuff to wear!'

Sister Sister, broadcast all over the world, has attracted a wide audience of all ages and nationalities. French fans recognised Tia and Tamera in Paris and asked for autographs, and even kisses, but this didn't faze the two in the slightest. 'It's great if we can be positive role models,' says Tia. 'Whether viewers are black, white, young or old, if we can make them smile, then we're happy.'

LIVE EURO 2000: PORTUGAL V ENGLAND
EUROSPORT 7.30PM

The streets will be empty in England tonight as Kevin Keegan's men open their Euro 2000 campaign against flamboyant Portugal – a team that might not be among the favourites, but can beat the best at any time. Michael Owen (pictured, right) and Alan Shearer will almost certainly start up front for England, who will be trying not to lose as much as they will be trying to win this first group match. For Portugal, watch out for Rui Costa (pictured, left), the midfielder with an eye for goal.

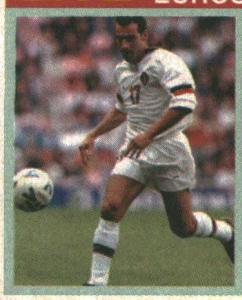
LIVE EURO 2000: ITALY V BELGIUM EUROSPORT 7.30PM



In Brussels tonight, Belgium (whose Toni Brogno is pictured, left) take on an Italian side who are managed by World Cup-winning goalkeeper and captain of the 1980s Dino Zoff. Each Red Devils game takes place in front of a passionate crowd, but that won't intimidate the Italians. In fact, it might finally spur the Azzurri back to their best. With stars like Francesco Totti (pictured, right) and Christian Vieri, Zoff's men have the talent to record a famous victory.

LIVE FORD GOLF USA: US OPEN 2000 SKY SPORTS 2 7.30PM

There will be no more emotional sporting event this year than the US Open. For just four months after winning this championship last June, Payne Stewart was killed in a plane crash. The runner-up in 1999, Phil Mickelson (pictured), will be part of a formidable home field which includes the world's top two – Tiger Woods and David Duval. The British challenge will be spearheaded by Colin Montgomerie, although it should be added that our last success in this tournament was 30 years ago.

Week 3

Saturday 17th June-Friday 23rd June

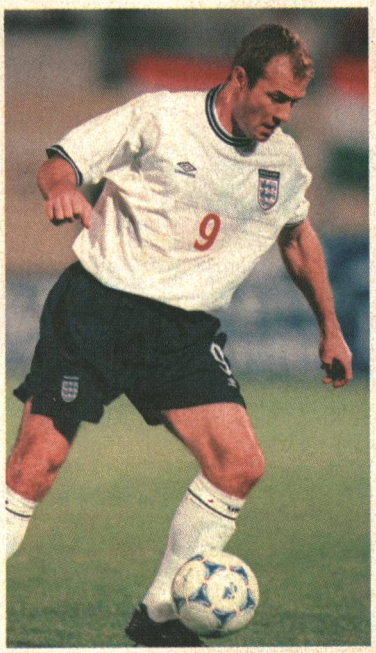
Look back in angora

Edward D Wood Jr was a cross-dressing director of Z-grade movies that were hypnotic in their sheer awfulness. His nutty, no-budget classics, such as 1953's Glen or Glenda (a ham-fisted though passionate plea for understanding towards transvestites) and his endearingly awful 1956 masterwork Plan 9 from Outer Space, attain an inspired lunacy in their disregard for the grammar of film. But Wood compensated for his lack of traditional cinematic skills with his ubridled enthusiasm. Indeed, in Tim Burton's achingly nostalgic, if highly romanticised, black-and-white biopic Ed Wood, the angora-obsessed Wood's one-take-and-print approach is depicted not as laziness but rather as a childlike eagerness to move on to the next scene (well, that and the demands of four-day shooting schedules). And in the title role, Johnny Depp gives a camp but compassionate character study that is brimming with sunny exuberance, while Martin Landau scooped a Best Supporting Actor Oscar for his uncanny and poignant imitation of the frail, drug-wracked Bela Lugosi. Burton lovingly and faithfully recreates sequences from the above movies, as well as 1955's Bride of the Monster, and his tribute ultimately leaves little doubt that, while Wood may have been dubbed The Worst Director of All Time, the world would have been a much sadder place without him. FilmFour Wednesday 21st 8.00pm

The family way

Putting the fun into dysfunctional, Married ... with Children's Peggy and Al Bundy (Katey Sagal and Ed O'Neill, above) make The Simpsons look positively normal. An antidote to cosy sitcoms such as The Cosby Show, it was described by its creator as a series 'no one is going to learn anything watching' – though as a lesson in how to humiliate your nearest and dearest, it's hard to beat.

Paramount Comedy Channel from Friday 9th 9.00pm



Dark horseplay

They're considered the 'dark horses' of their group, but it should be remembered that Romania qualified for Euro 2000 without losing a game, relegating Portugal – who line up alongside Germany and England in the Group A draw – to second place. England fans will have unhappy memories of their defeat by the Romanians during France 98, and coach Emerich Jenei knows his squad have the technique to repeat that result.

From the England perspective, this final group stage game is one Kevin Keegan will expect his team to win, and he will be looking to experienced players such as Alan Shearer (pictured) to help steer his side safely through to the next phase of the competition.

LIVE INTERNATIONAL RUGBY UNION: SOUTH AFRICA V ENGLAND SKY SPORTS 1 3.30PM

Winning the Six Nations championship is one thing, but winning in the southern hemisphere is an altogether more difficult proposition. That's the task facing Clive Woodward's team who play the Springboks in the first match of a two-match Test series at the Minolta Loftus Stadium in Pretoria. If England are to avenge last year's defeat in the Rugby World Cup then the likes of Lawrence Dallaglio (pictured) and Jonny Wilkinson will have to perform at their very best.

FILMFOUR
ADD-ON CHANNEL

2.00pm The Swimmer
Burt Lancaster, Janet Langard, Janice Rule, Tony Bickley
Drama, based on a short story by John Cheever, centring on the mid-life crisis of an American advertising man. One day, acting on a sudden impulse, he decides to swim his way home through the swimming pools of his comfortably-off neighbours in suburban Connecticut. Each pool in turn dredges up fleeting memories of incidents from his past, and sobering encounters with, among others, a nubile babysitter and his former mistress lead him to become increasingly disillusioned with his American Dream lifestyle. 1968, 91 mins

4.00 Local Hero
Peter Riegert, Burt Lancaster, Fulton Mackay, Dennis Lawson
Comedy. An eccentric Texas oil billionaire sends two employees to a small Scottish fishing village to negotiate oil drilling rights in the North Sea. The pair are instructed to buy up the entire village if necessary – but an elderly beachcomber refuses to sell out. 1983, 106 mins
6.00 Manon des Sources
Emmanuelle Béart, Yves Montand, Daniel Auteil
Drama sequel set in rural France. A young shepherdess keeps her distance from the local villagers, among whom are two men she blames for the death of her father. She is determined to wreak vengeance– despite the fact that one of the men is in love with her. 1986, 113 mins
8.00 12 Monkeys
Bruce Willis, Madeleine Stowe, Brad Pitt, Christopher Plummer
Science fiction time-travel thriller. A convict is sent back into the past from a dystopian future in order to determine the cause of a virus responsible for the deaths of five billion people. It soon becomes apparent that a group of fanatical eco-warriors may have unleashed the plague. 1995, 124 mins
10.15 Fresh
Sean Nelson, Samuel L Jackson, Giancarlo Esposito, Ron Brice

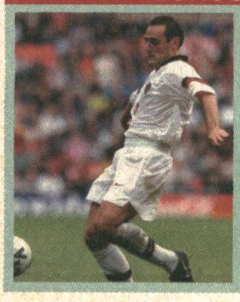
LIVE EURO 2000: BELGIUM V TURKEY EUROSPORT 7.30PM



No host side in a major championship wishes to exit at the group stage and Belgium (whose Yves Vanderhaeghe is pictured, left), face Turkey tonight in their last game of the first round of the competition, they know they will have done it the hard way if they manage to progress. The Turks might not travel well by tradition, but they will definitely be the kind of tricky opponents that no country in need of a victory would want to face, especially with the likes of Hakan Sükür (pictured, right) in attack.

QVC The Shopping Channel is at your service 24-hours-a-day – so watch when you can and tape when you can't. All you need is an item number. Call free phone on 0800-50-40-30 at any time. Today's highlight is Kim & Co Fashion at 3.00pm.

New Flex - the use anywhere, anytime, muscle toning system.

Flex is absolutely unique. It's like no other muscle toning system you've ever seen before and you can use it just about anywhere. It's the new, smart way to a firmer, flatter stomach and a sexier body.

Flex, available only from Slendertone, is designed to be so convenient to use it will become part of your life. You'll use it because it works - and it works because you'll use it.

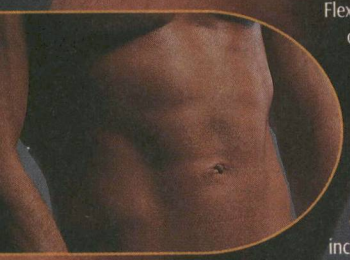
Sleek, compact and portable

Flex is small, sleek and portable - so you can use it whenever - and wherever - you want. While you're relaxing, while using other equipment at the gym or even at work.

Easy to use - no fiddly wires

There are no fiddly wires, just a lightweight breathable belt. Simply fasten the belt around your waist, press the start button and Flex starts stimulating the nerves which cause the stomach muscles to contract - even those that are not directly under the belt.

Clinically proven results



Flex uses clinically proven technology. In trials, 9 out of 10 users reported an improvement in firmness, 8 out of 10 reported an improvement in flatness and there was a 20% improvement in muscle strength. Depending on your size and fitness level, you could start to feel a difference after only 10 days and see significant results in 4 to 8 weeks. Used with regular exercise and healthy eating, you can look forward to a firmer stomach, increased muscle strength and a better looking body.

Smart training system

An "intelligent control" feature and in-built memory moves you through four exercise programmes and prompts you to increase your exercise levels for optimum results. The Flex system sets targets, motivates and includes a personal planner to record and co-ordinate your diet and exercise programme. And you can rely on our support - simply phone us or visit our website for advice and help when you need it.
Flex could change the way you look - and the way you feel.

Easy payments and money-back guarantee

You can get the new Flex in three easy monthly instalments of just £52. And if, after using Flex for 8 weeks after purchase, you're not satisfied that it can help you get a firmer stomach call the Slendertone Careline and we'll give you your money back.
To order or for more information, call the Careline now with your credit card details, quoting ref FMFM/CG1/00, or complete and return the coupon below.

Flex works

- C.S.I. technology™ - Flex uses unique C.S.I. technology (patent pending) developed by Slendertone, a world leader in muscle toning.
- Nerve stimulation - This breakthrough technology produces muscle contractions by stimulating the nerves which control the muscle fibres - pads are fixed to the belt and there are no wires.
- Targets all the muscles - Flex targets the nerves where they are closest together - between the ribcage and the hips - for a highly effective, totally safe stimulation of all the abdominal muscles at the same time.*
- Harder working - Flex works your muscles harder for you by producing strong and deep yet comfortable muscle contractions.

FILM
Birdy
Carlton Cinema 11.00pm
This adaptation of the William Wharton novel profits from Nicolas Cage's finest early performance. The flashback-driven plot sees bandaged war hero Cage trying to rouse his bird-loving pal (Matthew Modine), who sits crouched in a catatonic state in an army hospital.

LIVE EURO 2000: ENGLAND V ROMANIA EUROSPORT 7.30PM

England's final Group A game is against Romania, who tripped them up in the World Cup in France two years ago. Revenge would be sweet if Alan Shearer (pictured, left) can lead his team to victory and the next stage of the competition, which is the very least that the nation expects. But men like Chelsea's Dan Petrescu, the enduring Gheorge Hagi (pictured, right) and his Galatasaray team-mate Gheorghe Popescu plus many other familiar Romanian names won't lie down easily.

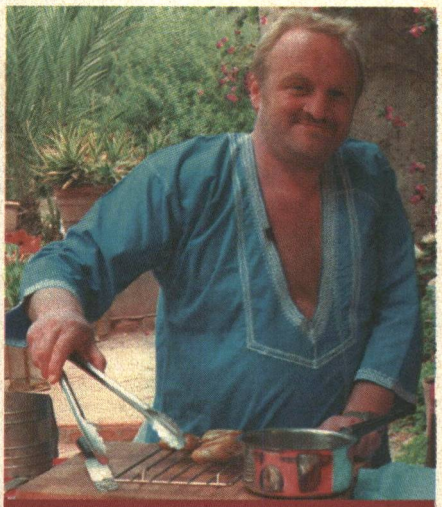
Antony caters for all

From stinking bishop to all things organic, Antony Worrall Thompson definitely has food covered. The popular chef took time out to talk to Diana Baxter about some of his favourite dishes and others he would prefer to forget …



Tong in cheek: Antony Worrall Thompson reveals Antony's Morocco

THERE is nothing better than spending a relaxing evening at home with friends, accompanied by good food and a good bottle of wine. Having prepared many a menu in his time, Antony Worrall Thompson says he wouldn't go for a 'three-courser' if his pals were coming round for dinner. 'I do like one-pot dining – a very informal way of eating. You just put one big pot on the table, like a bollito misto [mixed boiled meats], served with chutneys and pickles, or a risotto.'

However when it comes to his favourite three-course meal, the chef of more than 20 years opts for the traditional roast rib of beef 'with all the Yorkshires and bits and pieces'. To kick off the meal Worrall Thompson would create a seafood salad – 'something quite light, because you've got a heavy main course.' Then he would wrap it up with 'stinking bishop, a great British cheese, and crackers'. He says enthusiastically, 'British cheese competes very well with anything the French have got to offer!'

Worrall Thompson is always busy – juggling his restaurants, television commitments and public appearances. He has finished Food and Drink, which starts again in the autumn, but will soon begin work on another series of Ready, Steady, Cook, which he is pleased about. 'They've decided that life survives after Fern Britton, which is good for us chefs anyway.'

Good news for viewers is that the energetic gourmet appears on Carlton Food Network in Antony's Morocco and Simply Antony this month. Worrall Thompson enjoyed his time in North Africa, taking some of the more bizarre experiences in his stride. 'Some of the unusual things in the markets I would never dream of cooking with,' he cringes. Morocco sounds a million miles from Sainsbury's, with gerbils, lizard-like creepy crawlies and eyeballs being just a few of the ingredients mentioned. 'When you are queuing up in some of the butchers' shops for a piece of lamb you just take pot luck, because they work from the bottom up. They just chop away,' he explains. The philosophy is – lamb is lamb. Worrall Thompson laughs, 'You have to jump in the queue when they're coming to a good bit.'

One of the amusing incidents that happened when he was filming the series involved a bull's testicles … needless to say, you won't see it on TV!

'My wife, Jacinta, found a pair and put them out on the set under a plate – I nearly jumped out of my skin!'

He didn't sample them in Morocco but did have a taste test on a visit to Rome. 'They were quite nice actually but not something I would normally want to get my teeth in to, if you'll excuse the pun.'

He always wanted to be a chef and started cooking when he was five years old. His mother was an actress, which meant she was away for much of the time, so young Antony had au pairs to look after him. He exclaims, 'They cooked such bad food!' His first foray was butterscotch-flavoured Angel Delight, followed by the more exotic duck à l'orange. Worrall Thompson chuckles, 'I must have eaten it somewhere before. I caught the duck on the river and cooked it with its feathers and everything!'

When asked about future ideas, Worrall Thompson is enthusiastic. He wants to expand his restaurant group and would also like to spend some time in the Alps. 'There are two different cultures – skiing culture and summer culture – and you've got two styles of food served at different times of year, so I'd like to do that.'

Organic food is high on the chef's agenda and he grows many herbs and vegetables for his restaurant, Wiz. 'I don't know if you'd notice, unless you grow it yourself, but there's a huge difference in taste. And it's environmentally sound, knowing that you're not destroying the world.'

Trent Bridge is the venue for live women's cricket action from the one-day international between England and South Africa. Before this current series of matches, the teams last met in England in 1997 in the series that marked the South African side's return to international cricket. England won two of the one-day internationals to South Africa's one, with two games abandoned through rain. In 1998 an England Under-21 side went to South Africa where honours were divided in the two internationals.

FORD GOLF USA: FEDEX ST JUDE CLASSIC
SKY SPORTS 2 9.00PM

The action will be hotting up as the $2.8m FedEx St Jude Classic at the TPC at Southwind, Memphis, enters its fourth day. The completion of last year's tournament was delayed by lightning and heavy rain before Ted Tryba (pictured) managed two eagles in his final round of 66 to win by two strokes from Tom Lehman and Tim Herron. The poor weather did not favour José Maria Olazábal, who was leading when play was suspended. The Spaniard finished tied for fourth place.

FilmFour 10.00pm
An effortlessly cool comedy of duplicity and deception, stylishly directed by Men in Black's Barry Sonenfeld from the novel by cult crime writer Elmore Leonard. John Travolta stars as a laid-back, movie-mad loan shark who fancies himself in the role of a Hollywood player.

GENERAL

Grace Under Fire
Paramount Comedy Channel 7.00pm
Part of a season of female-led US sitcoms titled Fantasy Football Free, Grace Under Fire provides an antidote to the male bonding-fest that is Euro 2000. Brett Butler shines as the hard-bitten southern single parent imparting her own barbed commentary on life.

LIVE EURO TOUR GOLF: COMPAQ EUROPEAN GRAND PRIX SKY SPORTS 1 2.00PM

The second day of the Compaq European Grand Prix, held at De Vere Slaley Hall in Northumberland, will be a nervous one for David Park (pictured). In only his second European Tour event, the Welshman was the surprise winner last year and he would happily repeat the victory again to establish his credentials as one of the bright stars of the future. However, he won't catch his rivals by surprise two years running, so he can expect a tough defence.

Clocker watching

Oscar-nominated screenwriter Richard Price has carved out a reputation as a consummate adapter of other people's work. But his script for the Spike Lee picture Clockers presented Price with a new challenge – he had to give a movie makeover to his own novel set in the nervy netherworld of the 24-hour drug dealer. The plot has been pared down to make an accessibly linear murder-mystery, sadly sacrificing the source work's intimate insights into the thoughts of homicide detective Rocco Klein (played in the film by Harvey Keitel), but Price's street slang still resonates with angry authenticity.

In Harm's way – JAG returns

The military action series JAG is back for a fifth series this month. Following the exploits of the US Navy's Judge Advocate Corps, the show boasts amazingly realistic action sequences, which are assembled using out-takes from movies, archive footage and military training videos. Season four ended on a cliffhanger, as LCDR Harmon 'Harm' Rabb Jr (David James Elliott) had laser surgery to cure the night blindness that had grounded him. How will Harm fare now he's back on flight status aboard an aircraft carrier? And how will he react to the fact that his colleague Sarah 'Mac' MacKenzie (Catherine Bell) now outranks him, having been promoted to Colonel? Sky One from Tuesday 27th 8.00pm

LIVE SUPERBIKE: WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP, VALENCIA
EUROSPORT 11.00AM, 2.30PM

The third Superbike World Championship race of the month comes from Valencia, and Carl Fogarty's recent serious arm injury has opened the door for his rivals. The four-time Superbike champion from England crashed at 140mph in Australia and must surely be out of the running for the title. Step forward one of the pre-season favourites, Troy Corser (pictured) of Australia on his Aprilia, and Japan's Noriyuki Haga who led the riders' championship early in the season.

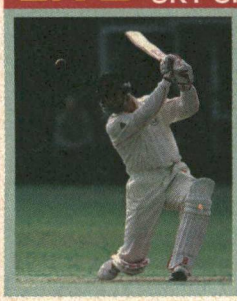
LIVE NATIONAL CRICKET LEAGUE: LANCASHIRE V YORKSHIRE
SKY SPORTS 1 4.00PM, 7.30PM



There's no finer sight on the cricket pitches of England than a war of the roses – Lancashire against Yorkshire. Old Trafford is the venue as the defending champions play host to their rivals from across the Pennines, Yorkshire, who finished fifth in last year's campaign. The rivalry is fierce between the two counties and the batting of the home side's John Crawley (pictured, left) will be as crucial as the bowling of his rival Darren Gough (pictured, right) of Yorkshire.

HEROIC ADVENTURE, ACTION, EXCITEMENT? STAY IN BED!

You could pull on your armour or blaster-proof space suit, grab your sword or laser gun and head off in pursuit of the dark rulers of magical lands, or to claim the bounty on inter-galactic pirates.

But waiting at the bus stop dressed like that is not the best way to get to where you want to go.

With the Fantasy & SF Book Club your thirst for adventure can be satisfied without even changing out of your pyjamas – although certain people have been to the end of the universe wearing theirs!

You'll be offered the best and latest titles from the world's bestselling fantasy and science fiction authors. From Tolkien to Terry Pratchett and Terry Brooks, David Eddings to David Gemmell, Isaac Asimov, William Gibson and Douglas Adams, you'll find what you're looking for.

To become a member of the Fantasy & SF Book Club, choose any five of the books shown here from only 50p EACH (plus £2.95 p&p). BUT SEND NO MONEY NOW – you'll get them all on ten days' approval.

WHAT DO YOU GET?

- A remarkable range of Fantasy and SF books and CD ROMs
- A FREE magazine approximately every two months
- Guaranteed savings of up to 50% off publishers' prices
- An experienced, quality service delivering books to your door

All we ask of you is that you buy at least one book from each magazine for a minimum of four magazines.

To apply for membership of the Fantasy & SF Book Club, complete and return the coupon today.

LIVE EURO TOUR GOLF: MURPHY'S IRISH OPEN SKY SPORTS 1 3.00PM

LIVE FORD GOLF USA: CANON GREATER HARTFORD OPEN SKY SPORTS 2 7.00PM

Your first win on the USPGA Tour is always special and Brent Geiberger will remember last year's Canon Greater Hartford Open as his opener in the win column. Not even the threat of stormy weather and the close attentions of Skip Kendall (pictured, right), who finished second, could deprive Geiberger of his moment of glory at the TPC at River Highlands in Cromwell. An error-free 67 final round led to an 18-under final score which meant the Californian pocketed the $450,00 first prize.

SPELLBOUND BY THE 10TH KINGDOM

THANK YOU for showing The 10th Kingdom – simply the best thing that has been on television in this country for years. Three generations of my family fell in love with Wolf and were gripped wondering if he would win Virginia's love. The costumes, make-up and wonderful script were so good, my eight-year-old daughter cried when it finished. Now she can't wait to save up and buy it on video. Will another series be made by NBC and Sky?

Loraine Morran
e-mail

THE 10TH KINGDOM has to be the best family show that Sky One has ever aired. My family and I thoroughly enjoyed it. I was wondering if Sky One were planning to show it again as I missed the last episode, or is the series coming out on video?

Stephen Salmon, e-mail

THE 10TH KINGDOM was for adults, ('Kiss my bottom', 'Sucking Hell'). It should have been advertised as such and shown after 9.00pm. I intended to watch this with my grandchildren. No chance.

Ted Sears, e-mail

● Sky One tells us there are no plans to repeat* The 10th Kingdom *at present, but the book and video set are on sale in major retailer outlets. There are currently no firm plans for another series. Sky's editorial department viewed the series and considered it suitable for the times it was broadcast.

ANY SIGN OF SEINFELD?

WHAT has happened to Seinfeld? I miss my nightly fix of Jerry and the gang. Does Paramount plan to bring back this incredibly brilliant series any time soon?

Marion Wilson, e-mail

● Paramount Comedy Channel responds: 'Seinfeld will be back on Paramount this autumn. It's a fantastic show for us and we're in the process of acquiring yet more episodes.'

The eyes have it: Kimberly Williams stars as the heroine in Sky One's well received The 10th Kingdom

WHY, THANK YOU

I CAN honestly say that for the first time since we have been receiving cable (a good few years now) we are getting the full benefit from our viewing. This is entirely due to the arrival of the Cable Guide magazine. In the past, no matter which guide we bought, it never detailed the programmes in full, so we often missed the best programmes. The whole Guide is a good read in itself, with the articles, and reviews. Thank you, from a grateful viewer.

There's a £50 prize for the star letter!

MORE SOUTH PARK, PLEASE

I LOVE South Park, and really enjoyed the new series on Sky One. When will we be getting the fourth series? I can't wait!

Kerrie, e-mail

● Sky One informs us that they will show the fourth series of* South Park *towards the end of this year.

★ WHAT A KNIGHT: THE BEST OF ER

I NEVER miss an episode of ER – it is one of my favourite programmes. The plot which saw Carter [Noah Wyle] and Lucy Knight [Kellie Martin, right] stabbed by a psycho patient [Sky One, 6 April] was one of the most dramatic, shocking and exciting episodes that I have seen on ER in a long time. I think a lot of viewers will share my opinion. ER has been terrific, so keep it up!

Christie Parr, e-mail

● Congratulations, Christie, you've won this month's £50 prize for the star letter!

DRAGONBALL Z: KIDS' STUFF?

DRAGONBALL Z on Cartoon Network may be a very entertaining show, but why can't it be shown at a more appropriate time? My four-year-old daughter watches Cartoon Network every day but has her viewing time shortened because I will not allow her to watch a cartoon that centres on fighting.

Rozeena Islam, e-mail

● Cartoon Network responds: 'We know* Dragonball Z *is not for everybody, which is why we launched a new digital channel called Boomerang in May. From now on, Rozeena, you will always have a suitable choice of programme for your daughter.'

MY FRIENDS and I love Dragonball Z on Cartoon Network. Is there a fan club that we could write to?

Amanda Dawke
Merseyside

● As far as Cartoon Network knows there is no* Dragonball Z fan club yet, but you can find the Dragonball Z *microsite at www.CartoonNetwork.co.uk or the official website at www.DragonballZ.com

FLICKS IN THE NICK OF TIME

A HUGE thank you to Nickelodeon for all the Nick Flicks they showed over the Easter break. It was great to watch films like The Labyrinth and The Dark Crystal, which I enjoyed so much when I was younger. Are there going to be any more Nick Flicks in the near future?

Polly Booth (14), e-mail

● Nickelodeon responds: 'This Easter was the first of what we hope will be a whole series of* Nick Flicks *and we are in the process of securing more movies.'

UK HORIZONS

UK HORIZONS would like to apologise to Cable Guide readers for suggesting that documentary maker Paul Watson, who made the original Sylvania Waters series, had any involvement in the production of the programme Return to Sylvania Waters that was shown on the channel on 29 April this year. We would like to make it clear that although Paul Watson appears in the show, he did not revisit the Baker Donaher family or produce the programme.

THE ENIGMATIC KEANU REEVES

CONGRATULATIONS on your excellent feature on Keanu Reeves in May's issue. The interview [by Garth Pearce] shed some new light on his rather enigmatic personality, combining the interviewer's rare ability to blend both biographical and factual detail in a way that provided fresh interest without becoming excessively intrusive. Discretion obviously prevailed and the star's right to privacy respected, which, unfortunately, many global tabloids disregard. Please give us more of his understated talent – 'flops' and all!
